'I Did Not Kill My Wife'

Husband Again Sentenced to Hang

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani told the B.C. Supreme Court jury that found him guilty of capital murder Friday that he was not responsible for the arsenic murder of his wife.

"I have been asked three or four times if I was guilty of killing my wife. I did not kill my wife."

He then turned his head to look at the jury and said: "May God have mercy on your souls."

He was then sentenced to be hanged Jan. 23 by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer.

It was the second time Castellani had been found guilty of the capital murder of his wife, Esther, 40, who died in hospital of arsenic poisoning July 11, 1965.

He was granted a new trial after successfully appealing the first conviction.

Defence lawyer Charles Maclean said the second conviction will also be appealed.

Tests showed parts of her body contained up to 1,500 times the normal human tolerance. Castellani was arrested and charged.

★ ★ ★

In his summation to the jury, Maclean said: "If we're going to hang men for adultery, there aren't enough lamp posts in Vancouver to accommodate them."

Funeral symbolizes death of hippies in San Francisco

Hippies End Own Era, Invent Free New Life

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hundreds of flower children paraded through the mecca of the long-haired set Friday proclaiming "the death of the hippie." The marchers said they were purging evil to make men free.

The funeral procession included a 22-foot long black casket, a 15-foot cross, huge white flags, small symbolic painted signs, a few flowers and a variety of musical instruments.

A few brought their children along for the parade through the Haight-Ashbury district and nearby Golden Gate Park panhandle where love-ins, feed ins and various types of "ins" have been staged in recent months.

"The hippie is dead; now we are free," chanted some of the demonstrators waving sticks of incense and small American flags. Others chanted a Hindu prayer, Hare Krishna.

A hippie posing as a corpse was borne on a stretcher near the casket.

The significance of using the casket as a dumping grounds was explained by bearded George Darling, a hippie elder, wearing sandals, shorts and carrying the 15-foot cross.

"It's to get rid of our affectations," he said solemnly. "If beads are not you, put them in. If drugs are not you, put them in . . . the purpose of this community is to be yourself."

Darling, one of the operators of the hippies' communications centre known as Switchboard, said "We are hoping the disillusioned who have moved out will come back."

The parade ended in the park panhandle after a 90-minute march through the district where a banner across Haight Street read "Death of hippie. Freebie, birth of the free American."

The casket was set afire as hippies danced around it. Firemen arrived a few minutes later to spray the embers with water.

Only Head Remains In Sizzling Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tall, slender young man walked into a San Francisco foundry and stepped into a vat of molten iron.

The vat contained iron ore heated to 2,600 degrees and only his head was found. The coroner hopes to make identification from it.

Witnesses said the molten iron exploded when the man went into the vat Thursday, sending red-hot metal spraying 30 feet.

Police said they learned the man had tried to take his life earlier by jumping into a truck filled with liquid concrete.

William Nicolini, a telephone company supervisor, told police he pulled the man out but was told: "Leave me alone—I'm trying to make an impression."

Minutes later the man, about 28, walked into the foundry.

Ex-Minister Dead at 73

★ ★ ★

Campney had returned to his law firm after he lost his Vancouver Centre seat to the Conservatives in the 1957 federal election.

He was first elected to the Commons in 1949 and served as solicitor-general before being named defence minister in 1954.

But he was careful not to become too deeply involved in politics.

"Politics is a jealous mistress," he once remarked. "If you are not careful, it will take up more of your time than you bargained for."

Campney died two days after an operation. His health had been failing for some time and he had suffered a stroke.

★ ★ ★

He is survived by his wife, Mary, and a son, Alan F. Campney. His first wife, Vera, died in 1961.

"I learned with great regret of the death of my old friend and colleague Ralph Campney.

"We had served together in the House of Commons from 1949 to 1957 and had been cabinet colleagues from 1952 to 1957.

"My wife and I have sent our personal condolences to Mrs. Campney and the family.

"Canada has lost an outstanding citizen."

Jakarta Planning Break with Peking

"We will move toward a stop in diplomatic relations," he told a group of anti-Communist students. "The government will take measures but it needs time to make preparations."

The students Friday delivered an ultimatum to the government, warning that if it did not break relations by Monday morning they would seize the Chinese embassy in Jakarta and oust the Chinese diplomats.

Stop Raids, Start Talks

India Claims Inside Word

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—India said Friday it has inside information that North Vietnam would talk peace if the United States would stop the bombs.

American officials remained unimpressed. They said privately they detected no new element in the Indian statement, made in the UN General Assembly by Defence Minister Sardar Swaran Singh.

Singh said India's firm belief that fighting would stop throughout Vietnam and a "Geneva-type" peace conference follow, if the U.S. called off the raids, is "based on our talks with the various parties concerned."

He appeared to be answering U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's Sept. 21 assembly statement that no third party had "conveyed to us any authoritative message from Hanoi that there would in fact be negotiations if the bombing were stopped."

Singh's statement was the most categorical yet in the assembly on the results of an end to the air raids, called for by several previous speakers, including Canada's External Affairs Minister Martin.

Diplomats attached considerable importance to Singh's statement because India is chairman of the International Control Commissions in Vietnam and Laos, which was created by the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences. Canada and Poland are the other commission members. India also has top-level representation in the key capitals involved, including Hanoi.

Singh stressed that he was not speaking out of "wishful thinking," but "with confidence and belief based on our talks with the various parties concerned with the conflict."

New Job

Birthday Task Over

VANCOUVER (CP) — Centennial Commissioner John Fisher confirmed Friday he had resigned his federal post and has accepted a new job as publisher and managing director of Northwest Publications Ltd., a B.C. firm.

"I felt my job was pretty much completed," Fisher said in an interview. "After all, we're over the hump so far as the centennial is concerned, and I think it has sufficient momentum to carry on without my services."

Asked about reports he had encountered difficulties with State Secretary Judy LaMarsh and her predecessor, Senator Maurice Lamontangne, Fisher said:

"I never circulated any such reports. The job was an interesting challenge. I feel it's pretty well completed."

Teacher 'Trust' Absent

By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — "A deplorable lack of mutual trust and co-operation" between school trustees and teachers was attacked Friday by Robert Buzza, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Buzza made his criticism before the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. He went on to chide trustees for a resolution aimed at barring teachers from school boards anywhere in B.C (See also Page 12.)

NOT CONSIDERED

Despite his remarks, trustees later in the day refused to reconsider the resolution, passed Thursday. It asks the government to legislate against teachers holding seats on school boards.

At present, a teacher can sit on a board other than the one in the district where he teaches. There are five such teacher trustees in B.C.

'FEAR US'

"Many of you appear to fear us and to want to work against us rather than with us. Even to the point of attempting to deprive us of our rights as citizens," said Buzza.

"Teachers have served and are serving as councillors and mayors and reeves and MLAs and MPs and cabinet ministers and premiers and prime ministers.

NO OPPORTUNITY

"But trustees have now decided in their wisdom that the public should not have even the opportunity of deciding whether or not a responsible man or woman who happens to be a teacher should be elected as a trustee," he remarked.

The motion to reconsider was made by Burnaby trustee R. J. Bowman.

"I have the inevitiable feeling that many people in this province are laughing up their sleeve at us," said Bowman.

But debate was restricted to procedural matters and the actual issue did not come up for discussion a second time.

Grit Fiscal Policy

'Like Runaway Hearse'

Finance Minister Sharp was compared with all of them, unfavorably, in a Commons speech Friday by Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon).

Besides blistering the finance minister in particular, Nielsen scorched the entire Liberal government for wasteful spending. He accused it of favoring big corporations at the expense of the small taxpayer.

'BIG SPENDERS'

"Never since the Klondike gold rush . . . has their been such an agglomeration of big spenders," the sharp-tongued MP said as the Commons continued debating Sharp's budget presented last June.

Sharp was standing in the midst of "fiscal wreckage" brought on by "the most spendthrift government in our history."

Nielsen said Sharp promised in his budget speech four months ago to tackle inflation. But now that debate had resumed after the summer recess, he had been forced to admit his failure to control the situation.

'UP THE HILL'

Because Sharp's cabinet colleagues refused to curtail their spending, the minister was trapped "like a passenger in a runaway hearse . . . heading for a precipice in the economic affairs of this country."

He was like the Duke of York in the poem that told of his marching men up the hill only to march them back down again. He talked of cutting back government expenditures but his colleagues went right on spending.

Nielsen

In the "field of empire-building" Sharp and the government make "Alexander the Great and Napoleon look like the Smothers brothers," Nielsen said.

Sharp was like a mouse in a cage full of lions, instead of a real lion-tamer. In fact, if he were to make a real attempt at curbing spending, he would have to be "a fiscal Clyde Beatty."

OWN SPENDING

Sharp's predicted $740,000,000 budget deficit of last June was on the way to growing to about $1,000,000,000, Nielsen said. Though such advisory bodies as the Economic Council of Canada had called for reduced government spending, all Sharp could do was say that he was trying to trim spending for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Sharp's own department is spending $250,000,000 more this year than last, the Conservative MP said.

The planned performing arts centre in Ottawa had started out with a price tag of $10,000,000 and costs now had soared to $40,000,000.

The publicly-owned CBC had become "a byword for uncontrolled expenditure." The Commons no longer held control over its spending and there was "so much fat surrounding the bone that you can't even see to cut."

Two in the Bush Worth Experiment

BILL THOMAS' NOTEBOOK — Saturday

MAYDAY BIRDS: Trefor Davies has come up with a novel idea for helping people who get lost in small aircraft. He suggests that each light plane carry two pigeons to carry messages if the aircraft is downed and the radio is knocked out.

Mr. Davies has 60 birds that he races and he suggests pigeon club members across Canada would co-operate in supplying birds for the rescue job.

He says the birds are fine for ranges up to 500 miles but adds some birds have flown home from as far away as 1,200 miles.

After 60 years in the pigeon business Mr. Davies should know his birds. The least the department of transport can do is to take a good look at the matter and run a test or two.

TEA TIME: The Canadian Aid for Vietnam Civilians Committee is going to hold a different kind of tea party in the Pendray Hall tonight.

In addition to the usual speeches starting at 7 p.m. there will be a symbolic meal of tea and rice "to enable all who participate to experience a sense of identification with the people of Vietnam."

CRUMBLING: The British Army is not what it used to be. Take a look at the nominal rolls of the Scots and Welsh Guards who will be at Memorial Arena for a show Oct. 23.

The Scots come from such odd spots as New Zealand, Australia, London, Lancashire, and Hants.

The Welsh Guards are no purer — they have men from Scotland, the Channel Islands, London, Rhodesia and such spots as Manchester, London and Huddersfield.

Just to be fair it should be mentioned that the units do have men from Maesteg, Blaenau Ffestiniog, Llanrhaedr, Carnoustie, Aberdeen and Kirkcaldy. Pronunciations will be supplied or attempted on request.

Visitors may get a chance to see the musical Lights Up in rehearsal. Also on view will be the costume room, scene studio, workshops and the studio theatre.

The musical will open Oct. 11 at the McPherson Theatre and stars Marge Bridgeman, Margaret Martin, Don McManus, Bill Hosie, Nancy Watt and Glenn MacDonald. The coffee pot will be on all day.

PICTURE BLURRED: Photographer Robin Clarke is still in a snit about the treatment he got from the local coach lines office.

He sends pictures to Vancouver newspapers regularly and the usual procedure is to send them collect. Mr. Clarke had some stuff to send to Sooke so he took it down to the bus office with plans of dropping into the bank to cash cheques after the shipping chore was completed.

The coach office refused to accept the freight collect idea to Sooke and said he must pay the 55 cents in advance. He did not have the 55 cents.

He asked if the driver could collect the 55 cents from the party who would be waiting for the pictures when the bus arrived at Sooke. The answer he got was "No."

Mr. Clarke was, by this time, thoroughly unhappy. He raced to the bank and cashed one of his cheques and then beat the bus to its stop at the Imperial Inn.

Then he gave the driver his 55 cents, handed over the envelope, and got a receipt which is what he had wanted the driver to do all along, at Sooke.

All in all, a very frustrating day.

Surgical Removal of Navel Will Not Affect Fertility

By JOSEPH MOLNER MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: If one undergoes an operation for complete removal of the navel for umbilical hernia does this mean a person never can have children? — M.L.

No it has nothing to do with having children The navel or umbilicus is the spot to which the umbilical cord was attached until a baby was born. Once a child is born the navel has no further purpose.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a mother of three children and was thinking of taking birth control pills. The problem is that my doctor is Catholic and I am afraid he would refuse to prescribe them because of his religion. I also have the problem of the Rh factor. Would the pills harm me or any future children? — MRS. D.G.

First question: Have you asked your doctor about it?

Second question: No future harm.

Dear Dr. Molner: You mentioned gluten bread and we have tried without success to find a recipe. Do you know where we might get one? — W.T.S.

No, I mentioned gluten-free bread, needed in some rather unusual conditions. Gluten is a particular protein found in wheat and other cereals. If one needs gluten-free bread, gluten-free flour can be purchased. Special food stores may have gluten-free bread, and some bakeries will prepare the bread on order.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to have the typical children's diseases chickenpox measles, etc. more than once? I say no but my friend says yes. — MRS. E.K.M.

It is possible but it happens very rarely.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was having chest pains and went to the doctor. He had X-rays taken and said it was walking pneumonia and gave me a prescription. It relieved the pains but I still feel very weak. What is "walking pneumonia"? — MRS. F.A.

Pneumonia is an infection of the lungs of one type or another. A number of different germs can cause it. "Walking pneumonia" is a case mild enough so it does not make you collapse — but it is still pneumonia.

Note to J.H.: It is not necessary to wait until a cataract is "ripe" or "full grown" to remove it. It can be removed any time it is interfering with eyesight to an extent warranting surgery.

'Like Runaway Hearse'

000,000, had gone past the $40,000,000 mark and there still is "no hydrofoil in sight."

Under the Liberals "the war on poverty is being won by the big corporation . . . and lost by the average taxpayer."

Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra) said the government must give the mining industry assurance of a safe future in Canada. It should promise that no matter what tax changes follow from the Carter royal commission on taxation there would be no "massive upset" to the three-year tax holiday for new mines and to depletion allowances.

He also called for assurance that there would be no "punitive expeditions" against foreign capital and that problems of Confederation be resolved to create a favorable climate for foreign investment.

AGAINST WEST

Howard Johnston (SC—Okanagan-Revelstoke) said many federal government actions seem to embody discrimination against the West. British Columbia had been unable to get aid for such projects as the Pacific Great Eastern Railway or hydro developments although there had been federal aid for Saskatchewan's Gardiner Dam, for the St. Lawrence Seaway and for the proposed Prince Edward Island causeway.

The Commons was treated to results of a poll taken by J. A. Mongrain (Ind.—Trois-Rivieres) in his own riding.

Mongrain said seven per cent of the 23,380 questionnaires he sent out were returned, showing 6-to-1 opposition to separatism for Quebec.

SAME MAJORITY

The poll had disclosed a similar overwhelming majority in favor of taking part in centennial celebrations.

Devoting his entire address to Indian problems, Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said Ottawa must admit some validity to the land claims of British Columbia Indians.

This would help the native population of the province formulate their demands and clear the way for action on the government's legislation for an Indian claims commission.

J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said the "Pearson peace formula" to settle the seaway strike of 1965 —a 30-per-cent increase on a two-year contract—had set off a round of labor increases too rich for the country to digest.

Federal involvement in settlement of that strike was the catalyst that "started the unprecedented inflationary process across the country."

He also blamed inflation on "fantastic increases" in the civil service and federal salaries.

Sharp "spoke with a forked tongue" when he asked Canadians now to exercise restraint without giving them restraint, if any.

Roland Godin (Creditiste-Portneuf) suggested that Sharp use the Bank of Canada to finance public projects, and raise pensions and family allowances.

The 11-per-cent federal tax on building materials should be offset with a 10-per-cent tax discount on housing, excise taxes should be repealed and replaced with a 10-per-cent discount on goods, and income under $5,000 a year should be exempt from tax.

Liu Arrest Reported

TOKYO (AP) — Moscow radio said today Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-tung's leadership has officially announced that President Liu Shao-chi is under house arrest.

Peking's official propaganda machinery has made no mention of this in its broadcasts heard in Tokyo.

GM Ordered To Pay $375,000

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A jury ended the longest civil suit in Sacramento history Friday by awarding a woman $375,000 in damages from General Motors Corp., which had been found liable in an accident involving its Chevrolet Corvette Stingray.

The firm had been found liable last week after a 56-day trial, and the same jury returned the damages verdict in Superior court.

Norman J. Badorek of Sacramento and Philip W. Dustman of Fall River Mills died in July, 1965, when Dustman's 1965 Corvette was struck from behind as he slowed to pass a minor accident.

Badorek's wife Carol received severe burns in the wreck, and she and other families involved brought suit against the firm and the driver of the car that hit the Corvette — Matthews Rodgers of Santa Clara, now serving a prison term for manslaughter in the case.

General Motors said it would appeal Friday's verdict.

Invasion Plans Denied by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Indiana Democratic Sen. Vance Hartke said Friday the administration, under increasing pressure from the Pentagon, was seriously considering invading North Vietnam. The defence department denied it.

"There is no question that an invasion is being seriously considered," Hartke said. "President Johnson is under increasing pressure to do that."

He said the pattern of past escalations is being repeated — "a contrived leak, a trial balloon, a carefully-worded Pentagon denial."

STATEMENT

The Pentagon, in a statement several hours later, said "no consideration is being given by the department of defence to an invasion of North Vietnam."

Hartke, who worked closely with Johnson when the president was Senate Democratic leader, has been critical of the administration on Vietnam, defence spending information, and handling of the anti-poverty program.

Hartke said Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, sent up a trial balloon in Pittsburgh, where he was reported as saying he favored an invasion. But Lodge later denied making such a statement.

The next step, Hartke said, would be a denial from the defence department that the joint chiefs of staff had ever recommended an invasion.

Meanwhile, an aide to Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R—Ky.) denied press reports that the senator called for military restraint in Vietnam on the basis of the possibility of an invasion of the North.

J. Duff Reed, Morton's press aide, said Morton "has never given serious consideration to these rumors and would certainly not base any major policy statement on them."

Morton, who withdrew his support of the administration's war policy last month, called for unilateral de-escalation by the United States in a speech last week. He is now vacationing in Europe.

It is known that invasion of the North was one of several alternatives recently under study when the marines at Con Thien and other outposts just south of the demilitarized zone were being bombarded by intense Communist artillery fire coming from across the zone.

DEMONSTRATION BAN

In Saigon the South Vietnamese government Friday backed up warnings to student demonstrators by drafting 12 of them into the army. At the same time, it warned that future demonstrators would lose their civil rights and face trials in military courts.

The new get tough policy could face its first real challenge Sunday. Militant Buddhists said they will march through Saigon to "pay a visit" to Thich Tri Quang, the Buddhist leader who is staging a sitdown strike in a park across the street from the presidential palace.

Police said they would permit 20 Buddhists to march to Tri Quang's side. But if the Buddhists want to test their strength in their "life and death struggle" against president-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, they might send more.

PEACE REJECTED

Following North Vietnam's lead, the Viet Cong guerrillas of South Vietnam Thursday rejected U.S. President Johnson's latest peace proposals and reiterated their conditions for peace in Vietnam.

The Giai Phong press agency, a mouthpiece of the guerrillas, said in a commentary broadcast by North Vietnam's official news agency that Johnson's speech last Friday at San Antonio, Tex., "pretends to work for peace, but in fact means that Johnson wants the war to go on."

U.S. planes have blasted the Tien Nong fuel dump six miles northwest of Haiphong, cutting another target from the forbidden list in North Vietnam.

WAR EFFORT

Storage tanks at Tien Nong were estimated to hold 700 tons of oil for the Communist war effort. U.S. fighter-bombers hit them for the first time Thursday in one of 134 missions that again centred primarily on objectives in an area of Haiphong, North Vietnam's principal port, and once-exempt bridges in a zone ranging as close as 10 miles to China's frontier.

The U.S. command announced one plane, a U.S. Air Force F-105 Thunderchief, was shot down Thursday and its pilot is missing. This was the 688th plane officially listed by the U.S. as lost in the campaign over the North, which round out its 32nd month Friday.

This may surprise you, but practically all of those top-selling Canadian whiskies that call themselves "rye" are mostly made from corn. It's a shame, because an all-rye whisky is delightfully different. It's clean and clear and g-e-n-t-l-e, as only a real rye can be. Corn up a good whisky like Alberta Premium? Never!

The Housing Shortage

THE LIBERAL government has won its narrow victory in the Commons on its housing policy. But it still will have the electorate to deal with if the serious situation, as seems likely, fails materially to improve. Opposition members made the striking point in debate that the policy may provide more high-cost housing money for the well-off who can afford it, and may enable more public money to be employed in building rental accommodation for the poor, but the new NHA mortgage rate will disqualify most of the average wage-earners of Canada—those whose income is between $4,000 and $8,000—from building homes.

Therefore it is exceedingly doubtful that the bulk of the population will be favorably impressed with the government's performance; almost as doubtful that the number of housing starts will grow sufficiently to approach the nation's pressing needs.

Indeed, Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson indicated in the debate that the government itself does not expect the need as outlined by the Economic Council of Canada to be met, or anything like it. Mr. Nicholson predicted more than 150,000 starts this year. When Mr. Davie Fulton interjected that this was 50,000 too few, the labor minister replied that according to the Council 140,000 would take care of new family formations; 50,000 were to "replace old houses that should disappear." (The Council also called for a 10,000-unit increase in the stock of unoccupied housing.)

In fact the Council was talking of requirements as estimated for 1970, but the point here is that it was referring not to the number of houses that "should" disappear, but "the amount of new building necessary simply to keep the total housing stock intact after allowing for various removals of units from use due to the elimination of substandard housing, population shifts, and changing economic land uses. . ."

The increase in the NHA lending rate will undoubtedly have the effect of making more private mortgage funds available, but if young families still find themselves unable because of the cost or the qualification terms to buy new homes, for them it will be no different from the tight-money policy that caused the decline in building in 1966.

And injurious side-effects of tight money to which the Economic Council pointed will not, meanwhile, be much altered by looser but more expensive money. Two of them in particular:

"Shortages of suitable housing in many of the larger urban areas of the country, with adverse social consequences and inhibiting effects on labor mobility;

"Widespread and significant increases in rents and house prices, which have been reflected in the cost of living and in upward pressures on wages."

A Diagnosis

BECAUSE MOST Canadians at one time or another feel it incumbent upon them to express their personal opinions on the advantages or disadvantages of being citizens of a country with two official languages, it might be interesting for them to note that other people in other bilingual or multilingual communities also indulge in similar arguments at frequent intervals.

Only last week, for instance, Mr. Charles Ducommun, director of the Swiss postal services, told the French-speaking civil servants of that country that English was becoming Switzerland's fourth national language and was thus presenting "a great danger for us" and a threat to Swiss national unity.

"Everybody has to learn English," Mr. Ducommun complained. "The result—German Swiss are neglecting to learn French, and Romansch speakers see less and less need to worry about German. Bilingualism is on the decline. Our national unity is suffering."

At the same meeting a report by Mr. Olivier Reverdin, a Swiss parliamentarian from Geneva, was read out. Mr. Reverdin wrote:

"There was a time when French reigned from Portugal to the Urals. Anyone who travels the world today is obliged to admit the truth—that ignorance of English is an infirmity, while ignorance of French is a disadvantage."

Placed in a Canadian context Mr. Reverdin's conclusion would indicate that two-thirds of our population suffer from an unfavorable condition while the remaining third are afflicted by a physical disability. Maybe he has a point.

Date with History

FIFTY YEARS AGO, the Canadian Corps, commanded by General (later Sir) Arthur Currie of Victoria, stepped out into the shell-churned mud before the dawn in an assault aimed at the Passchendaele positions, stubbornly defended from thickly scattered German pillboxes and by elite troops.

"The name of Passchendaele," wrote the historian, Sir Charles Lucas, "still arouses bitter memories in Canada, for here, amid indescribable miseries, seemingly to win part of a ridge which a few months later was given up almost without fighting, 16,000 Canadian casualties were incurred."

One of the many heroes of the twelve days of fighting from Nov. 26 to Nov. 6, which saw the Canadian Corps win all its objectives, was Major-General George R. Pearkes, who won a Victoria Cross there as a youthful major in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, acting as infantry.

The selection of His Honor, now nearing the end of his extended term as lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, as the official representative of the Canadian forces to attend Passchendaele anniversary observances, is most suitable.

And, of course, his own distinguished military career makes him the natural nominee to represent the nation at the anniversary of a battle in which, despite his wounds, he played a conspicuous and gallant part.

The hearts of veterans of the Canadian Corps will be with him as he surveys again the scene of those bleak days where so many died for the faith of freedom.

Red Wedge Between Neighbors

China-Pakistan Collusion Source of India's Concern

By SUNDAR RAJAN
from New Delhi

If all that is said and printed here is true, it would seem that Red China has achieved a commanding position in Pakistan's political, economic and military affairs.

According to Balraj Madhok, a prominent Hindu right-wing leader, "Pakistan is now a firm military ally of Communist China." Madhok recently warned the United States "not to attach any importance to Pakistan's formal connection with Western defence pacts."

Whenever the Indian Parliament discusses defence or foreign affairs, MPs make startling statements about Sino-Pakistani "collusion." Indian newspapers are also full of stories and articles on the subject.

All leading newspapers here recently carried a news item which said that 100 senior Chinese military officers are in Pakistan to "streamline" the Pakistan army.

"A full division of the Pakistan army has now received training under Chinese experts. It is also completely equipped with Chinese weapons," the news story stated.

According to Indian newspapers, Peking is helping in the construction of a modern naval base at Chittagong in the eastern wing of Pakistan.

They also report the arrival of "several squadrons" of Soviet-built aircraft gifted by the Chinese to the Pakistan air force.

The influential Times of India group of newspapers claims that "China and Pakistan have struck a secret deal making the defence of East Pakistan the joint responsibility of the two countries."

Well-informed diplomatic sources in New Delhi believe that much of what Indians say about Sino-Pakistani relations is colored by their long-standing suspicion of Pakistan and the strong anti-Peking feeling here. They do not agree with the common Indian description that Pakistan has become a "satellite" of Red China.

Nevertheless, there is general agreement among diplomatic observers here that Pakistan has moved very close to Red China. As one observer put it, "It would be safe to say that the Chinese today are among Pakistan's best friends."

On the basis of official announcements made in Pakistan as well as in China, it is clear that co-operation between the two countries has reached a high level.

Peking is playing a major role in the industrial development of Pakistan. It is providing materials and advisers for a heavy machinery complex at Taxila, near Rawalpindi, scheduled to begin production in three years.

Negotiations are also under way for setting up a Chinese-aided central foundry and forge plant in the Rawalpindi area.

China and Pakistan have signed an agreement for an atomic power station in East Pakistan. Peking also is building a paper mill in East Pakistan costing $60 million.

Pakistani engineers and scientists are being trained in China under two agreements.

A writer in the London Financial Times said recently: "Pakistan's satisfaction with Chinese aid stems partly from the terms on which loans are made by Peking and partly from the cheapness of Chinese goods. The Taxila machinery plant is being financed to the extent of about 60 per cent by an interest-free Chinese credit with a 20-year repayment period."

At a military parade in Rawalpindi last year the Pakistanis displayed Chinese tanks along with U.S. Pattons.

Though Indian estimates of "lavish" military aid are considered exaggerated, responsible observers say that Peking has gifted "appreciable" quantities of military hardware. Their cost is put roughly at $200 million.

What really worries thoughtful people here is not the scale of Chinese aid to Rawalpindi but the wedge Red China is driving between India and Pakistan.

Mme. Indira Gandhi's Travels May Include Tashkent Review

By C. R. RAMACHANDRAN
from New Delhi

A MEETING between India's Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan under the auspices of the Soviet Union to review the workings of the Tashkent declaration is considered possible if present diplomatic moves in Delhi, Islamabad and, principally, Moscow, are fruitful. If it comes off in late October, it will be something that Mr. Kosygin can show his people as instance of expanding Soviet influence in the Indian sub-continent during the celebrations of the 50th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Mrs. Gandhi is leaving India on October 8 on a month-long trip that will take her to Moscow, Warsaw, Bucharest, Prague, Belgrade and Cairo. She will be in Moscow shortly after the departure of Marshal Ayub Khan from the Russian capital, where he has had an extended stay.

Last week the Indian and Pakistani governments announced that representatives from both sides would shortly meet to consider the reopening of telecommunications services suspended since hostilities between the two countries in 1964.

Another indication of a possible resumption of political dialogue between India and Pakistan is Delhi's decision to allow Sheikh Abdulla, the Kashmiri leader who has been in detention for 14 years, to stay in Delhi instead of Madras, although he will remain under guard. It is generally understood here that he will be released in November, when the five-year state of emergency declared after the Chinese attack on India's northern frontier is completely lifted.

This by itself will not make talks on the political future of Kashmir any easier, but the political climate will certainly improve. The chief minister of Kashmir, Mr. Ghulam Mohammed Sadiq, has told Delhi that he will not oppose Sheikh Abdullah's release.

Improved relations with Pakistan are not the only consideration for Mrs. Gandhi's tour abroad. She is concerned at the criticism from East European governments that India is abdicating her functions in South and South-east Asia because of economic subservience to the United States. Indian Communists have never stopped criticizing her for fancied or real concessions to American interests, and her trip is meant to correct that impression.

The statements of the deputy prime minister, Mr. Morarji Desai, in the U.S., have been singled out in Communist countries for scathing attacks. Mr. Desai is said to have favored the recognition of two Chinas, although official spokesmen have explained it all away as a mistake in reporting.

But Mrs. Gandhi herself seems to have changed Indian policy on Vietnam when in the joint communique between her and Ceylon's prime minister at the end of her visit to Ceylon they called for an end to hostile activities from any quarter in Vietnam.

The Indian position so far has been that the United States should stop bombing and get back to negotiations on the bases of the Geneva agreement of 1954. All this has created some doubts in Communist and non-aligned capitals about India's bona fides in relation to Vietnam and the Middle East. Mrs. Gandhi will very likely reassure the heads of governments she will meet on her tour that India's policy remains unchanged.

It is also expected that she will canvass opinion in favor of India's stand against the terms of the draft treaty on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. As a "threshold power" India feels that she cannot foreclose her nuclear option, an attitude that may be shared by other powers which are just getting started with nuclear reactors.

If Mrs. Gandhi agrees to talks with Pakistan's Marshal Ayub Khan she may have enhanced her stature in the world, but at home it might embarrass her because there has been a recent upsurge of communalism in India, with riots at half-a-dozen places ranging from Srinagar in Kashmir to Ahmednagar in Maharashtra. But it is felt here that Moscow cannot wait endlessly for the political atmosphere in India to clear.

In Milwaukee

Uneasy Truce

By MARQUIS CHILDS
from Milwaukee

THE chanting goes on in the chancel before the altar of St. Boniface's Church to the rhythmic clapping and shouting of the congration. "Black Power, Black Power," sock it to 'em, Black Power" and now and then with great fervor, "We love Father Groppi, we love Father Groppi . . ."

This invocation, half a kind of fun-making go-go, half deadly earnestness, leads up to the 36th night (Oct. 3) of consecutive marching protesting the failure of the city council to pass an open-housing ordinance. Organized by the Young Commandos, members of the Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, they file out and begin to march in a cold rain, singing as they go, through dark and dreary streets. While blacks are in the majority, a surprising number of youthful whites, some of them wearing Black Power sweat shirts, are among the chanters and the marchers.

On both sides of the embittered divide separating the Negro ghetto of north Milwaukee from Polish-American south Milwaukee they are beginning to ask where this ends and whether it can produce any results. And that question itself suggests a grave crisis just ahead.

The protest movement in this affluent city is still nonviolent, thanks in large measure to Father James Groppi of St. Boniface's parish. It still enlists both races in a drive to break through the walls of the ghetto.

In early August a riot here resulted in three deaths and minor property damage. Mayor Henry Maier clamped on a rigid curfew for 24 hours, with all movement in and out of the city forbidden. This is believed to have prevented another Newark or Detroit.

In the aftermath of the riot hopes were high that with the lesson of flaring violence narrowly averted there would be movement. The stubborn stand of the city council would be broken and an open-housing ordinance adopted. The tragic fact, however, is that the stalemate continues.

So why, the Young Commandos are beginning to say, should we fool around with this stuff. Moreover, an open housing ordinance seems a pretty abstract goal that won't really make much difference in the lives of the 90,000 Negroes who are virtually all crowded into the ghetto.

Most observers credit Mayor Maier with good intentions. As a Democratic leader in the Wisconsin legislature he fought for liberal causes. He argues the cruel logic of the declining core city with the tax base eroding as demands pile up for civic improvements.

Briefly there was hope that Gov. Warren Knowles would call a special session of the legislature to put through a really effective statewide open-housing law. But when the Republican governor sat down with the Republican leaders he found them set against any such move. After all, Maier and the city council were Democrats, so let them stew in their own troubles.

After the minor riot last summer — they call it a skirmish — Father Groppi and the Commandos looked for action from the community. New and radical strategies are being whispered about that can present Milwaukee with something far more serious than a skirmish.

A Family Affair

Spanish Election Scheduled Oct. 10

By W. CEMLYN JONES from Madrid

SPANIARDS, or at least some of them, go to the polls on October 10 to elect their representatives to the Cortes — the Spanish parliament. The enthusiasm engendered by these elections so far would scarcely make a castanet click, and the reason for the apathy is not hard to understand.

The elections have been organized on a complex basis which is unlikely to change anything. There are 564 members of the Cortes. Most are directly appointed, 25 by General Francisco Franco himself, the rest as representatives of different facets of national life, such as business, the professions and the universities. The Sindicatos, the state-controlled trade unions, actually elect 150 deputies.

This election is a new if scarcely revolutionary innovation. By the last amendment to the so-called Organic Law, 100 members — that is fewer than a fifth of the total Cortes — will be elected by heads of families and married women. About 300 candidates are offering themselves for the 100 vacancies. But these candidates are themselves hand-picked. The necessary qualifications are that they should themselves be heads of families, have served previously either in the Cortes or in some provincial position of responsibility. The wild boys are definitely out.

The truth is that no matter what choice the Spanish voters make, the constitution of the next Cortes will be solidly behind the regime. There is not the slightest possibility of effective opposition, and, from a democratic standpoint, the best hope is that there will be some interesting discussions on the decrees handed down by the cabinet and perhaps some constructive suggestions for future legislation.

Last December's referendum was designed to obtain a popular mandate for the division of powers between the chief of state (president, or even potentially in the future, a monarch) and the head of the government (prime minister). Both these posts are still held by General Franco. This suggestion of the separation of powers was overwhelmingly supported by a free and almost certainly honest vote. Yet since then no moves have been made to implement the popular mandate.

Many questions remain unresolved. The future of the monarchy is obscure. The fit but ageing Generalissimo keeps a firm and unruffled control. To the average Spaniard, these elections do not seem to have very much meaning — but then Spaniards have never been totally convinced of the delights and superiority of a democratic form of government.

Party politics in the Iberian peninsula, from the 19th-century Carlist wars to the short-lived republic of the thirties, have always ended in disaster. The Spanish people in general are proud individualists who resent bureaucratic dictatorship, but even many liberals are not at all happy about the practical possibilities of democratic party politics here. They remember only too well the problems which occurred after the departure — not abdication, as monarchists are quick to point out — of Alfonso VIII. They remember too the deprivations and the agony of the civil war within the Civil War, when Communists and anarchists fought it out to the death of liberal Socialism. Franco had equally divergent elements on his side, from the Falange to the monarchists and Carlists. Shrewdly, he never closely associated himself with any part of the Right, and has maintained his enigmatic position to this day.

But Spain has changed profoundly since the nineteen-thirties, much more profoundly than perhaps is realized by some old-time radicals abroad. The Falange, the only official legal political party in Spain, has been subtly emasculated by Franco, and is now known as the Movimiento (the National Movement). It is a very different organization from the one founded by Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera. Some of the old party hands still occasionally wear the Mussolini (Fascist) trappings on festive occasions. The white tunics and black shirts in modern Spain seem more obsolete than the 16th-century uniforms of the bullring aguaciles. They certainly seem to cause some embarrassment to the party boss, Senor Solis, a clever politician who holds cabinet rank and who attempts to compare the party-controlled Sindicatos to the British Trades Union Congress.

The Monarchists who support the Pretender Don Juan, Count of Barcelona, openly resent the alleged encouragement which Franco has given his son Don Juan Carlos, a charming young man with an attractive wife, Princess Sophia of Greece, who has been groomed for royal stardom.

The Carlists, who provided the toughest and most ruthless troops on Franco's side during the Civil War, are a scarcely serious political factor outside their sentimental stronghold in Navarre.

The army remains a solid conservative, almost civil rather than military, service firmly entrenched behind the chief of state and ready to support any future regime which would guarantee stability.

The Catholic Church has its own problems. While the hierarchy is in general conservative, if not reactionary, many of the younger clergy have actively associated themselves, in open defiance of the bishops and state authorities, with rebellious students and striking workers.

The really important element in the present day political scene in Spain is the new middle class. In 1936, apart from the few professional and business men, this vital and vigorous section of the population scarcely existed. They, with their recently acquired prosperity, may well provide the strongest support for the present regime. Their sons and daughters attend the universities, and many of them hold Left-wing views. But their parents, who remember the horrors and privations of the Spanish War and its aftermath, are unsympathetic. They, and these are the voters in this "Family Election," would prefer a stable government, which seldom interferes with their new comfortable way of life, to the uncertainties of idealistic radicalism.

On U.S. Image

Nixon Speaks Bluntly

By PHILIP DEANE

THE world is not ready "to understand or match America's good intentions," says Mr. Richard Nixon. So he proposes that the U.S. should hereafter refrain from "sanctimoniousness" and tell the world "bluntly" that Americans act in their own "self interest" exclusively.

This is dangerous doctrine, especially when coupled with the simultaneous statement by Governor Ronald Reagan that the U.S. should escalate the war in Vietnam as necessary to achieve victory and threaten to use nuclear weapons.

It could be argued that Mr. Nixon is simply being candid. After all, a former undersecretary of state and great Johnson favorite, Mr. Thomas Mann, said that he preferred military dictatorships in Latin America because it was easier to do business with them. Indeed, the number of military dictatorships among nations receiving U.S. military aid is alarming: Korea, South Vietnam (despite the elections, still under a military junta), Thailand, Pakistan, Iran (the Shah's one-man rule through the army), Turkey, Greece and a large proportion of Latin America. Most of these countries face no external threat but are armed to the teeth so that the governments — usually inequitable and oppressive — can prevail against popular discontent. These governments, in fact, stand for all the things America, as a political ideal, rejects.

Heretofore it has been possible for moderate opponents of tyranny and retrogression in such military dictatorships to advocate revolution leading to a democratic government. It has been possible for these moderates — though less and less, recently — to maintain that America, basically, was sympathetic to their aspirations and the U.S. military aid to dictators was given regretfully through an exaggerated and often misplaced fear of communism. It was possible, these moderates preached, to correct America's errors and rely on her support for the cause of freedom and democracy, because America "felt a moral compulsion to defend freedom."

Now Mr. Nixon proposes that what remains of this American image be scrapped. With it, he would scrap whatever prestige moderates have had in countries under right wing military dictatorships. The fight against dictatorship will be taken over, more and more, by the New Left which is violent and Castroite in its outlook.

What will American reaction to such takeovers be, if they are to be judged by Mr. Nixon's standards of self-interest? Such standards led to the armed intervention in the Dominican Republic which left a legacy of bitterness towards America. Supposing there are several Dominican Republic crises all at once, will the U.S. intervene in all of them to prevent Castroite take-overs and maintain in power exploiting oligarchs? And for how long will the U.S. want to play this role?

From Reuters

The ruling British Labor party has its annual conference after giving the government a green light on its unpopular economic policies and a drive to get Britain into the Common Market.

★ ★ ★

This will not lead to a reversal of Prime Minister Wilson's broad backing for the U.S., but it put on record the deep division between the cabinet and its party.

The over-all outcome of the conference was that Wilson won more time to prove to disgruntled supporters and the nation at large that the last three years of economic austerity measures were worth it, and that better times are ahead.

The brunt of the conference's attack on the economy was beaten off by James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, while Foreign Secretary George Brown handled the potentially explosive issues of Vietnam and the Common Market.

Wilson had a clear field to make a state-of-the-nation speech in mid-conference. This was separate from any debate so there was no question of the delegates' reaction being translated into voting figures.

★ ★ ★

He won a standing ovation after telling the conference in effect that if they did not like his policies they would like the alternative of a Conservative party government even less.

The spirited defence of the government's record put up by the top trio—Wilson, Callaghan and Brown—jolted the conference out of apathy and revived enthusiasm among many of the party faithful.

Meanwhile, senior ministers put as cheerful a face as possible on a report in which the Common Market executive commission expressed doubt about the strength of the British economy and its ability to withstand the shock of Common Market membership.

The report spread gloom among some top ministers but now it is clear the British will press ahead nevertheless with the campaign for negotiations as soon as possible—even next month.

Egypt Not Much Help

From AP

Arab initiatives to halt Yemen's civil war appear seriously impaired after a peace mission returned to Cairo following a futile 24-hour stay in the Yemeni capital of San'a, where demonstrations were held against its presence.

Yemeni army elements have opposed Egypt's plan to pull out troops it sent to Yemen to back Republican forces in their war with the monarchists they overthrew in 1962.

He was sentenced to death on a charge of opening fire on San'a demonstrators. He denied the charge and accused Egyptian soldiers of doing the shooting which killed two officers and three civilians.

Canadian Press
From the UN

Despite persistent-and-predictable—denials, rumors persist here that some form of low-key talks are going on between Israeli and Arab spokesmen on the continuing Middle East stalemate.

Adding fuel to these reports are intimations from several sources close to the situation that in fact both sides are somewhat more moderate and even conciliatory in private talks than they have been from the rostrum of the UN General Assembly.

The feeling is that, given the none-too-stable positions of some of the principal political leaders at home, the UN policy speeches, afire with nationalism and inflexibility, are aimed more at the great unseen audience of the Middle East than they are at the 122-nation assembly.

Still, if any Arab-Israeli talks at a low diplomatic level are going on here and in Washington, as rumor has it, there is no indication they have yet produced any movement on either side.

For more than a week now, other private consultations have been going on here in an attempt to agree on a Security Council meeting in order to head off another long-winded, acrimonious and inconclusive debate in the General Assembly, tentatively set for Oct. 16.

Although several members of the 15-nation body are anxious for such a meeting—Britain, who with others has ships tied up in the Suez Canal, is said to be a prime mover—all agree there would be no point unless there was at least some hope of success.

The fact the talks continue with no indication of a council meeting being set confirms that no such hope has emerged.

Canada, one of the non-permanent council members, also wants the issue returned to the council and, indeed, is of the opinion it never should have been handed over to the General Assembly summer emergency session and later moved to the regular assembly which opened Sept. 19.

The United Arab Republic, in a letter to the council president Friday, charged that Israel was selectively shelling important canal structures in order to delay opening the waterway, blocked when Egypt scuttled vessels in it during the June war. Although the letter said the council could not "remair indifferent" to these alleged shellings, it did not ask for council meeting.

What worries diplomats here is that the longer the Middle East hotchpotch simmers, the more rigid the two opposing positions become— at least in public.

Jordan, generally considered the most moderate of the Arab states involved, was surprisingly bitter in its condemnation of Israel here. Later Premier Levi Eshkol of Israel said King Hussein of Jordan, through intermediaries, had approached Israel some weeks ago to see whether there was any basis for negotiations.

Eshkol said the reply was that conditions would be discussed only in direct negotiations at a conference table, instead of through the UN, as the Arabs insist.

"Perhaps that is why he has turned to the powers."

On the Israeli side, Foreign Minister Abba Eban topped any of his earlier pronouncements by saying last Tuesday that Israel was no longer bound by any past agreements with the Arabs except the June cease-fire agreement.

This would suggest wiping the slate clean of all the armistice agreements ending the previous two Arab-Israeli wars and starting from scratch.

'Stimulating' West Helps New Ideas

Canadian Press
From Edmonton

A Soviet nuclear physicist says he has asked the Canadian government for asylum because the West "is much more stimulating" for theoretical research.

Boris Dotsenko, 41, is a former chief nuclear scientist at the Ukrainian Academy of Science in Kiev and was head of Kiev state university's nuclear laboratory when he came to Canada a year ago.

He had been granted 10 months' leave for research at the University of Alberta under a graduate exchange program.

He said that "trying to discover something new, to move on to new ideas, is much better developed in Canada . . . than in the Soviet Union."

"People here are much more cordial and hospitable sincerely; They are not afraid to show their feelings . . . I say it frankly: Because of the freedom of expression there's less hypocrisy, and that's very important to me."

Dotsenko holds a degree equivalent to a doctorate from Moscow University and specializes in nuclear processes at low and moderate energy levels.

These are the processes used in most peaceful and military applications of atomic energy, but he describes his interest as abstract nuclear theory. He said the Soviet Union places too much emphasis on research toward immediate practical effects, and too little on expanding the body of nuclear knowledge.

★ ★ ★

J. T. Sample, chairman of the physics department at the University of Alberta, said Mr. Dotsenko will retain his position as research associate for the present.

Sample described his colleague as "a good nuclear theoretical physicist" and "highly thought of in the Soviet Union."

Mr. Dotsenko, pink-cheeked and speaking softly, said he had made "A definite decision to get out of the Soviet Union" before coming to Canada but wanted to "check and compare."

★ ★ ★

"I decided to use the scientific method . . . I felt I should observe conditions here from personal, scientific and political point of view."

He said he discussed his plans with no one in Kiev. He had made his final decisions in August, at the end of his official visit, and had been visited early in September by two officials from the Soviet embassy at Ottawa.

"They tried to persuade me very persistently.",

Dotsenko said he has applied through the Soviet embassy to divorce his wife, Klavdia, 38. They have one daughter, Irina, 10.

He described the University of Alberta as having a "really creative scientific atmosphere," "All of the scientific establishments I worked at in the Soviet Union could only envy this establishment here."

Meanwhile, university officials announced the exchange program which brought Dotsenko to Canada has been cancelled.

Orest Starhuk, Alberta's chairman of the program, said two Alberta students have been told not to go to Kiev and plans have been dropped for three Kiev students to come here.

★ ★ ★

Starchuk declined to say which university suggested dropping the program. He said "there were a lot of telegrams flying back and forth" as soon as Dotsenko announced his plans to stay.

Internal Struggles

Quebec Separatists Face Wild Weekend

Canadian Press
from Three Rivers

Le Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale, the province's biggest separatist political party, begins its annual meeting today sharply divided by internal struggles.

Among central questions is a proposed union between the RIN and le Ralliement national, the No. 2 separatist party led by Gilles Gregoire, MP for Lapointe.

Also under question is the leadership of Pierre Bourgault, 33, who recently resigned as party chairman in a move to consolidate his power.

Mrs. Ferretti said the current crisis in the party "is one of authority."

She is seeking the position of party vice-chairman, now held by lawyer Guy Pouliot of Quebec City, who endorses her campaign and who says he is not seeking re-election.

Among supporters of fusion has been Mr. Bourgault, who says he is trying to transform the separatists from a pressure group into a genuine political party.

Socreds Planning To Skip Weekend

Canadian Press
from Quebec

Political observers here are skeptical about the goal le Ralliement des Creditistes, headed by Real Caouette, has fixed for itself — the regrouping of Social Credit party forces across Canada.

The goal is to be discussed at a two-day meeting le Ralliement — Quebec offshoot of the Social Credit party — has called for today and Sunday.

Approximately 1,000 invitations have gone to Social Credit supporters across the country, but it is not yet known how many will be accepted.

Main objective of the meeting will be to establish a liaison committee whose membership would include representatives from various parts of Canada.

Caouette says the aim of the committee would be "to smooth out all possible difficulties and to unite Social Credit forces from one ocean to the other."

However, Howard Johnston says the four Social Credit members of the Commons will not attend the Quebec meeting.

In view of this, it is felt that few Social Credit supporters from Western Canada will show up for the meeting. Should this happen, the observers feel the meeting will have little effect on the national scene.

STAN DELAPLANE Tips You Off

MAZATLAN, Mexico — Every town along the Gulf is filled with tourist fishermen. The summer season is over — it was still pistol-hot driving down 800 miles from Tucson, Arizona.

Mazatlan is the coolest place we found. Guaymas gets an afternoon breeze that is somewhat cooling. Topolobampo Bay was so hot the morning fishermen came ashore by 8:30. Everywhere they tell us the fishing is sensational.

The highway through Nogales — Mexico 15 — is in the best shape I've ever seen it. Some narrow bridges you can't argue about with oncoming trucks. But markings are good. Good pavement.

Good air-conditioned motels along the route. Air conditioning was out-of-order at the Yacht Hotel at Topolobampa Bay but was OK in the town of Los Mochis nearby. This is the route for people coming from the Midwest and East. Come down through El Paso to Chihuahua. Catch a new train running across the mountains to Topolobampa. They'll freight your car on the same train at a low price — something around $16.

"With two couples planning to drive into Mexico but one couple will fly home . . ."

Mexico is very stiff about cars entering. If you bring one in, you must take it out. The couple driving out should have the car put on their tourist card. If it is noted on the other tourist cards, that couple won't be allowed to leave without the car. (You CAN change the papers. But it will take days. So do it right at the border while it's easy.)

If you blow a tire, save it. They want to see you take EVERYTHING out with the car.

"... what we need in vaccinations or shots?"

If I were you I'd ask my doctor.

"... how we should handle food and drink?"

The general rule they tell you is, "Drink bottled water. And don't eat any raw vegetables or fruit unless you can peel it yourself." Big hotel and restaurant people in Mexico assure me they wash all such things in a mild disinfectant.

I read a book on tropical hygiene that had so many things you couldn't do, you could hardly go in the first place. I play it as a matter of luck — with the best odds I can contrive.

I drink bottled water. I eat salads in the tourist hotels but not in roadside stands. A good bottled water is Tehuacan. Mexican beer wins prizes in Germany. I like Bohemia the best. Eggs, chicken and meat are very good. Along this coast, the fish is the greatest.

On this coast in the winter season, you do. Christmas time is crowded. Also true in Mexico City and Acapulco at that time. On the highway, I think you'll get motels if you stop early enough. About 4 p.m.

And don't drive at night. Much of the country is unfenced. The road is full of cattle and burros. And an occasional, unmarked pile of gravel left by yesterday's road crew. Hit one of those, the car stops, you keep going.

Up to December, all roads into Mexico are blazing hot for at least two days of driving. We would have been miserable without an air conditioned car. In winter, this coast drive is pleasant. Entry from El Paso can be bitter cold in Chihuahua State.

You really need two sets of clothing for winter in Mexico. It can be tropical warm in Acapulco and freezing up in Mexico City. Chances are Mexico City will have warm days and chilly nights. But they get an occasional three-day cold snap that will put you in overcoat and gloves. And make you sorry you don't have earmuffs.

Cunard Plans Link With French Lines

MONTREAL (CP) — The Cunard Line and the French Line may combine some aspects of their passenger and cruise operations with a view to higher standards of services, a wider and more convenient choice of sailings and an increase in the operational efficiency of both lines, Cunard announced Thursday.

In statement Cunard said subjects under consideration include possible joint sales and advertising programs for the French Line's 66,000-ton France and Cunard's new 58,000-ton Queen Elizabeth II when she comes into service early in 1969.

40-Year Teas Ended

NEW MILTON, England (CP) — British Railways clamped down on an unofficial railway timetable which had been outselling their own version at this rural Hampshire station.

Clerks at the ticket office sold their own version at four pence for more than 40 years, using the small profit for tea money.

They now must sell the BR edition which costs six times as much.

Expo Welcome

Paddlers Make It

MONTREAL (CP)— Two University of Victoria students ended a 4,000-mile canoe trip at Expo 67 Friday—then began figuring how to pay for it.

Geoff Davis, 20, and Ken McRae, 22, both of Kimberley, arrived hale and hearty from the four-month trip and expressed delight with a welcome of boat whistles, cannon firing and general pandemonium at Expo's marina.

"We didn't try to make a Hollywood finish, but we did paddle a little faster for the final stretch," Mr. Davis confessed.

TOUGHEST TRIP

While several continental-distance canoe voyages have been made in connection with Centennial Year, the Davis-McRae effort was said to be the toughest in the sense that only two men were involved.

"I don't want to toot our own horns, but because we were the only ones, our pace had to be slower," said Mr. Davis.

WITH RELATIVES

Davis and McRae, staying with relatives, now plan on remaining in Montreal probably until Christmas and perhaps for a year if they get "good jobs."

"Because we weren't sponsored, we have about $1,000 each to pay back—but it was well worth it," said Davis.

The first move of the adventurers here was to present to Mayor Jean Drapeau a letter of greetings from Mayor B. Buckle of Kimberley. They departed June 9 from Fort St. John.

The paddlers reported a pleasant trip except for a long detour because of heavy ice in Lake Athabasca and an anxious few minutes when their canoe tipped, with all their gear aboard, in chill waters of the Churchill River.

They recovered a scroll from Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes of British Columbia which they eventually presented to Governor-General Michener in Ottawa Oct. 2.

The paddlers said they had a motor only for the Lake Superior section of the trip, "not for the rivers."

Arctic Lupines

Prehistoric Seeds Germinate

OTTAWA (CP) — Botanists at the National Museum and Central Experimental Farm are keeping their fingers crossed and hoping that some Arctic lupines—possibly the oldest plants alive in the world today—may bloom late this year.

While the plants show no visible variations from the lupines growing in the Arctic today, there is one big difference. The plants grew from seeds estimated to be at least 10,000 years old.

ESTIMATED AGE

"We can't really be sure just how old the seeds are," says Dr. A. E. Porsild, 66-year-old botanist who retired officially from the museum last January although he has missed only three working days since then.

The estimated age has been provided by geologists making comparisons of the underground site, where the seeds were discovered in the Yukon, with similar sites in Alaska where measurements of radioactivity of dead plants has established ages of 15,000 years.

"Our estimates are on the conservative side," Dr. Porsild added in an interview Friday.

The seeds, discovered by Harold Smith, a Yukon mining engineer, were found in rodent burrows 10 to 20 feet below ground during mining operations near Miller Creek, about 100 miles north of Dawson.

DOZEN PLANTED

Museum officials learned about the discovery a year ago and acquired the seeds for testing.

A dozen of the seeds—about half the number found—were planted at the experimental farm under the care of G. A. Mulligan, a botanist at the farm's plant research institute.

Seven germinated and one, forced to grow rapidly under special conditions in a greenhouse, blossomed during the summer, although its two-foot-high stalks of blue flowers were not as healthy as expected.

Four of the plants still are alive, growing under more normal conditions. Porsild expects them to bloom before the end of the year.

While some old seeds have produced plants in the past, Porsild said he knows of no similar case where the seeds are as old as the ones he has.

Quebec Searching For Lethal Load

MASCOUCHE, Que. (CP) — Provincial police Friday began a massive hunt for 131 cases of dynamite containing 6,500 sticks and 2,000 detonating caps, stolen overnight from a parked truck in this community, 25 miles north of Montreal.

A police spokesman said the force's anti-subversive squad was called in to investigate possible political implications of the theft.

* * *

The three-ton truck was parked near the warehouse where it had been loaded Thursday night for deliveries early Friday.

While provincial police were hunting the dynamite, Montreal police were investigating the overnight theft of 17 rifles from a downtown surplus store. The firearms, of different calibres, were valued at $3,000.

Georgia Straight

Paper Ban Sticks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Supreme Court Friday refused an application by the editors of the hippie newspaper Georgia Strait for an injunction restraining the city of Vancouver from suspending their business licence.

Mr. Justice Thomas Dohm also commended Mayor Tom Campbell and city licence inspector Milton Harrell in a written judgment.

"I am of the opinion that his worship Mayor Campbell and chief licence inspector Mr. Harrell should be highly commended for their prompt actions (in a situation which calls for promptness and not 'buckpassing')."

MANY COMPLAINTS

Campbell said in his affidavit to the court that he had received many phone calls and letters complaining about the publication and its distribution.

He said he was especially concerned that Georgia Strait was being sold to children on school grounds.

Dohm said he held the city's actions were commendable after he read the exhibits.

He said that the dismissal of the publication will be subject to the right of the newspaper editors to argue the constitutional grounds of the case.

Log Truck Driver Trapped

The driver of a huge logging truck was pried from his cab Friday afternoon after his truck collided with a fully loaded logging truck in a sideswiping accident on a Butler Bros. logging road three miles west of Sooke.

William Graham, 1959 Kaltasen, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with leg and head injuries. He was in satisfactory condition early today.

Both trucks were of a type restricted to logging roads. Impact of the collision hurled the logs from the loaded truck, demolishing the cab of Graham's vehicle.

MONTREAL (CP) — International Nickel and CPR each moved higher in active trading but most other changes were fractional in a moderate rally.

CPR shot up 2⅛ points to 66⅝. Elsewhere on the market, Laura Secord dipped ¼ to 17¼.

McAllister Towing was fractionally higher, still reacting to news of takeover bid from Sogemines, which advanced ⅜ to 16.

MacMillan-Bloedel, Falconbridge, Dominion Foundries and Walker Gooderham were stronger.

Steels tended fractions higher. Jones and Laughlin starred with a rise of 1¼. Motors held firm. Chemicals turned narrowly mixed. Texaco and Jersey Standard were point-sized gainers in the mostly higher oils.

IBM was the standout in the electronics, jumping 15 to 568. E G and G Corp. climbed to 10⅝, Control Data 5⅝ and Motorola 6. Fairchild Camera, Sperry Rand and Burroughs also improved. Texas Instruments was an exception, giving up 1⅛.

Finance Minister Due for 'Stinkers'

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Some of the more unpalatable tax dishes from the Carter Commission on Taxation were served up to members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at a lunchtime panel discussion in Victoria Friday.

Two Vancouver experts, lawyer Derek Parkinson and accountant Jock Barbeau, gave more than 100 Victoria business people an insight as to what would happen to their lives if the whole of the Carter recommendations were accepted.

At some stages, their explanations were met with groans and other expressions of dismay.

"It will breed an entirely new race of taxation bureaucrats to make it workable," was the comment of one chamber member at the conclusion of the two-hour discussion.

"Surely the government won't fall for all this," exclaimed another.

GRAVE DANGER

But as the very erudite panelists pointed out there is indeed grave danger of this happening if members of the public do not express their views, as they have been invited to do by Finance Minister Sharp.

Mr. Parkinson implored his hearers to do this, adding that the time of submission to the minister had extended from Sept. 30 to Oct. 31.

The government, according to Mr. Barbeau, is setting back awaiting public reaction before attempting to spell out the new tax legislation.

WRITE YOURSELF

"If you are not a member of an organization making its representations, you should write to Mr. Sharp yourself if you feel you have anything to contribute," he said.

In rising to thank the panelists, former chamber president Courtney Haddock said he hoped the Victoria chamber would follow the example of the Vancouver Board of Trade in making a submission to Mr. Sharp, before the end of the month deadline.

● "The comprehensive tax base includes all net gains in purchasing power including capital gains, windfalls, bequests and other forms of real income that are now tax exempt."

● "The greatest benefits from Carter would be to the class with annual income between $30,000 and $45,000."

● "Capital gains tax would be imposed only on realized gains, or gains deemed to be dispositioned."

● "There would be no succession tax or gift tax as such, but all bequests or gifts going outside the family unit would be taxed at the full 50-per-cent rate with capital treated as income."

● "All assets would have to be valued — a tremendous task."

● "Persons leaving the family unit (to set up family units of their own, for instance) would be taxed on the value of guns, furniture or any property or money withdrawn subject to an exemption up to $5,000."

● "No tax would be payable on transfers within the family units, such as the passing of property from husband to widow, but would be subject to tax and capital gain when the family unit is disbanded (on the death of the widow)."

● "Payment of tax on capital gains, or windfalls could be averaged over a period of up to five years, or it could be placed in a government operated adjustment account, on which no interest would be payable, but on which tax would be payable only as withdrawn."

Quite clearly the panelists did not sell the Carter report to the Victoria Chamber membership.

I reckon Mr. Sharp is due to receive some "stinkers."

Loffmark Gets Deputy

The $19,000-a-year post of deputy minister of trade and industry in B.C. was filled Friday exactly one year and one week after it was vacated.

The appointment of Robert Renwick, 50, of Vancouver, was announced by Trade Minister Loffmark. He succeeds Thomas Sturgess who retired last year.

Mr. Renwick is regional manager of the federal department of trade and commerce on Canada's west coast and has specialized in exports markets in the Orient.

REASON FOR DELAY

Mr. Loffmark said the past year has meant "backbreaking" labors for himself as minister without a deputy. There was an advantage, however, because it mean familiarizing himself with all aspects of the department's operation, he said.

The reason for the delay in making the appointment, the minister said, was difficulty in reconciling the separate data processing and trade promotion aspects of the department.

Mr. Renwick's detailed career listings show no reference to experience in data processing. He was born in Ottawa, graduated from McGill in 1948 with a bachelor of commerce degree and honors in economics.

He has served the federal department of trade ad commerce in Ottawa, Bombay, Tokyo, Chicago and Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. He is also western representative of the Exports Credit Insurance Corporation.

All Spring

Federal Wallet Busy

OTTAWA (CP)—How would you like to have $5 to blow for every $3 you now spend?

Well, the governments are doing it for you.

Government spending rose 7.5 per cent in April, May and June this year over their outlays in January, February and March. And it isn't just a case of springtime activities starting up after the long, hard winter.

National accounts figures released this week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed that expenditures by all levels of government in the second quarter of the year totalled $5,111,000,000, compared with $4,793,000,000 in the first quarter.

SPENDING COMPARED

Adjusting the figures to take into account seasonal variations, and projecting them onto an annual rate basis, DBS reported that government spending in April, May and June was running at $21,252,000,000 a year, compared with $19,728,000,000 in the first quarter.

The $21,252,000,000 compares with personal expenditures on consumer goods and services amounting to $37,288,000,000.

In other words, federal, provincial and municipal governments spend almost $2 for every $3 spent by individuals on consumer goods and services.

The increase in federal spending was attributed to both defence and non-defence items. Higher salaries and wages, and increased outlays for municipal public works, predominated in the spending pattern of the other levels of government.

Owner Baumgartner gets little interest from Big Cheese

Tough Test for Big Cheese In High-Class Derby Field

By JIM TANG

Weather is playing havoc with what started out to be a record-breaking season at Sandown Park, but few horse-racing fans are likely to miss today's runnings of the Sandown Derby.

It is split into two divisions because 16 horses, comprising what is probably the best group of three-year-olds ever stabled at Sandown, passed the entry wicket yesterday morning. And to make it all the more interesting, the luck of the draw grouped six of the most likely into the second division.

That one includes Big Cheese, not likely to be more than a mild favorite after drawing the toughest-possible opposition and the top weight of 125 pounds.

Pitted against the Calgary-owned chestnut gelding are most of those who look as if they can handle the derby distance of a mile and one-sixteenth—Handsome Chief, Golden Wine, Glencar, War Treasure, Oratress, Chief Malarkey and Short Circuit.

Never Charge, Betty's Pride and Easel's Pride, best of the three-year-old sprinters, are all in the first division and set up another interesting race with In Solid, Uncle Roddy and Rotated likely to get most of the mutuel play because they have shown an ability to handle a route.

They will be running for a purse of $1,500 added in each division. The added in each case will come to $290 after 18 owners paid the $10 nominating fee and 16 elected to fork up the $25 extra to pass the entry wicket.

FRIDAY CROWD LIGHT

Yesterday brought the smallest crowd and the smallest mutuel handle in the 12 days of the meeting as a steady drizzle had its dampening effect on enthusiasm, too.

It was the fifth straight day of sloppy tracks after seven days of exceptional weather, and the effect is shown in mutuel totals.

Play was up each of the first seven days for a total increase of about $83,000 over last year's corresponding total. It has been down four of the five wet days for a loss of almost $18,000.

TWO FAVORITES WIN

Despite the slop, racing was on the formful side. Only two betting favorites got down in front but the biggest win payoff came in the five-horse feature race, Easy Joe returning $13.20 by just lasting to neck out favored Swan Lady.

Sandy Shields, leading rider on the Prairies this season with 78 winners, passed Joe Baze, who won 82 at Exhibition Park and then headed for greener (?) climes in the East.

Shields scored his fourth and fifth victories at Sandown to make it 83 for the season, but he is going to have to step up his production if he is to hold off Basil Frazier.

Frazier, who won 60 times at Exhibition Park, boosted his season's total to 80 by winning the first and last races yesterday.

Harris, who hasn't been getting as many "live" ones at Sandown as his ability merits, has only five winners here and 74 for the season.

O'Keefes Are Hosts

Columbus Carlings Make Debut Sunday

Columbus Carlings have a knack for being controversial at the best of times and they seem set to start their Pacific Coast Soccer League season off in that vein.

Starting at inside right for the visitors when they meet Victoria O'Keefes at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday will be Peter Simpson.

Simpson tried his luck in the National Professional Soccer League last season. The NPSL was branded as an outlaw league by the world governing body, FIFA.

NO ACTION YET

Mainardi's claim is based on the fact that the governing Canadian body has not made any statements to forbid players from re-entering the association and the B.C. Commission has had to go along with Simpson's eligibility.

Columbus has the same last line of defence as last season with Peter Ahrend in goal, Dan Komuzzi and Sam Lennarduzzi as fullbacks and Jean Vazzoler at centre half but they have a slightly new look on attack.

O'KEEFES STAND PAT

O'Keefes are going with the same starting lineup which whipped Burnaby Villa, 3-1, last Saturday.

Barry Sadler is in goal with Dave Stothard and Don McIntosh as fullbacks, George Paul, Bill Hamilton and Tom Westwater on the half line with Marty Taylor, Peter Brett, Ike MacKay, Bert Soutar and Peter Wilson as forwards.

Jim Menzies is still troubled with his leg injury and will not dress for the game, while Russ Ball, Dunc McCaig, Ray Telford and Brian Robinson will be available to manager Frank Grealy.

Sunday's match, which starts at 2 p.m., marks the third consecutive weekend that Victoria has played host to a team making its debut in the young season.

Monarchs Bow

Meyers, Rudyk Pace All Stars

Larry Meyers and Bill Rudyk each scored twice Friday to lead the All Stars to a 7-2 victory over Esquimalt Tudor Monarchs in the annual pre-season Vancouver Island Hockey League game at the Sports Centre.

All Stars took a 5-0 lead before veteran Orv Coulter got the first Monarch goal in the fast, hard checking game.

Referee Eric Rossiter called only two penalties, both against the Stars, but Monarchs failed to take advantage on the odd-man situations.

Regular league play starts next Friday with University of Victoria Vikings playing Monarchs at 7:45 p.m. followed by Queen's Own Rifles and Stockers at 9:15.

CFL Teams Busy On Weekend

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, current leaders in the Eastern Conference, face a tough holiday weekend of Canadian Football League action as they take on Calgary Stampeders tonight in Calgary and the Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina Monday.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers have a date in Toronto Sunday with the Argonauts while British Columbia Lions play host to Edmonton Eskimos. In addition to the Hamilton-Saskatchewan game, Montreal will be at Ottawa Monday.

Tonight's game will be telecast on Channels 2 and 6 at 8 p.m.

Tempers Flare In NHL

Tempers are short on the NHL exhibition circuit.

Ken Hodge and Phil Esposito scored for Boston Bruins and Yvan Cournoyer for Montreal Canadiens as Bruins edged the Habs, 2-1, Friday night at Boston but the scoring was incidental.

Officials called 34 penalties, including nine for fighting, two misconducts and one game misconduct.

CHIEF ANTAGONISTS

Defenceman Ted Harris of Montreal and Bobby Orr of Boston were chief antagonists, staging one donnybrook of their own and each also getting mixed up in another fracas.

And the game produced injuries. Terry Harper of Montreal suffered a concussion and either a fractured or separated left shoulder when he was slammed into the boards. Boston's Ross Lonsberry suffered a cut left little finger which required 11 stitched and Orr injured a hand in his second fight and had to leave the game.

At Quebec, the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League and Philadelphia Flyers of the NHL planned two practice games Friday but managers agreed to call off the second game after several fights broke out in the opener.

Score of the game wasn't even given in The Canadian Press' report.

Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers stuck to hockey at Kitchener with the Leafs edging Rangers, 1-0, for their ninth win in 12 exhibition games.

Here Tonight

Chicago Black Hawk centre Pit Martin is expected to see action when the Hawks meet Portland Buckaroos at Memorial Arena at 7:30 tonight. Martin scored the winning goal Friday in Portland as Chicago won, 2-1. Doug Jarrett scored for Chicago while Dick Meissner scored for Portland.

Cy Watkins Wins Trophy

A. Cy Watkins of Glen Meadows won the Bob Mayhew Trophy for low net with a 68 Thursday in the final tournament of the season for the Vancouver Seniors Golf Association.

Suspended

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (CP) —Defenceman Pete Goegan, 32, has been suspended by Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, manager-coach Wren Blair has announced.

Cards Still Favorites As Briles Faces Bell

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The favored St. Louis Cardinals today will match young Nelson Briles, a bullpen graduate with nine straight wins, against Boston's Gary Bell, a veteran of 10 big league seasons, in the third game of a World Series that is all even after the first two.

A soft rain dripped down on both the Cardinals and the Red Sox Friday as they limbered up at Busch Stadium on the off day in the schedule.

The weatherman forecast a possibility of showers for the weekend games. However, it would take real heavy weather before any games would be called off, especially on a big television weekend.

CARDS UNCHANGED

Red Schoendienst, manager of the Cardinals, plans no changes in his lineup that banged out 10 hits in the opener but was held to one double by Jim Lonborg's pitching in the second game. Schoendienst hopes a return to familiar surrounding in the 49,450-capacity park will act as a tonic for the Cards' .177 team batting average.

Orlando Cepeda's failure to hit safely in the first two games has been an anchor around the neck of the Cards' attack. The Baby Bull from Puerto Rico, who batted .325 and led the National League with 111 runs batted in, hasn't hit in seven at-bats.

Tim McCarver also is hitless in six at bats and Curt Flood and Roger Maris each has only one hit. Lou Brock's four hits in the opener and .500 average make him far and away the leader.

Boston thinks its sluggers woke up Thursday with those two booming homers by Carl Yastrzemski, the slugger who carried the Sox on his shoulders all season. George Scott at .429, Yaz at .375 and Dalton Jones at .333 are the big men in Boston's lineup, which averages .234.

Manager Dick Williams plans to continue with the same batting order that won Thursday. That means Jose Tartabull again will be in right field in place of Ken Harrelson and Elston Howard will catch for Russ Gibson.

Williams has his pitching all set up through Monday, having proclaimed that Lonborg will wrap it up Monday. Jose Santiago, opening loser, will work Sunday.

GIBSON TO FOLLOW

The Cards are expected to follow Briles with Bob Gibson in Sunday's game in order to get a maximum of three starts with three days' rest each time for Gibson if the series goes seven games.

Schoendienst talks of Gibson or young Steve Carlton Sunday but everybody expects him to go to Gibson, who struck out 10 Red Sox and won the opener, 2-1. Carlton, a tall lefty, will pitch the Monday game if Gibson goes Sunday.

Briles is the young man, 24, who marched out of the Cardinal bullpen to take over a regular starting job after Bob Gibson suffered a broken right leg in mid-July. As a relief man, Briles was 4-3, as a starter 10-2, for a season total of 14-5. He has won nine in a row with a couple of no decisions mixed in.

Like his rival today, Briles is a right-hander.

Bell, 30, is a product of the Cleveland Indians' organization. The Red Sox acquired him June 4 in a trade. He was 1-5 at Cleveland but became a 12-8 winner at Boston for a 13-13 season.

Today's third game of the Series will be televised starting at 11 a.m. Victoria time on channels 2, 5 and 6 and will also be broadcast on radio over stations CBU (690) and KING (1090).

Gay Brewer, Casper Share Lead in Alcan

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Gay Brewer, the U.S. Masters champion, scored a birdie on the final hole Friday and went into a tie with Bill Casper for the second round lead in the Alcan Golf Tournament.

They had a 36-hole score of 139, five-under-par, over the aged St. Andrews Old Course. A field of 19 including 11 U.S. pros, is shooting for the $55,000 first prize.

Brewer fired a 70, with consecutive birdies also at the 13th and 14th holes. Casper, the 1966 U.S. Open champion from Peacock Gap, Calif., had a 71.

The two leaders had a two-stroke edge over a four-man mixture of Americans and British tied at 141. They were Gardner Dickinson of Lost Tree Village, Fla., 68-73; George Archer, the towering ex-cowboy from Gilroy, Calif., 70-71; Peter Alliss, veteran British Ryder Cup member, 69-72 and Brian Barnes, 22-year-old Englishman, 68-73.

SANDERS DROPS

Dickinson and Casper had shared the first round lead at 68 with Doug Sanders, the American touring pro, who skied to a 76 and dropped into a tie for seventh place.

The Old Course, carrying a par of 36-36—72, again was kindly to the visitors with a little rain, a little wind. None of the golfers thought the conditions were too hard.

Meanwhile, in the International Tournament carrying a first prize of $7,000, British Ryder Cup player George Will and Peter Thomson of Australia, five-time winner of the British Open, led the field with four-under-par 140, followed by Al Balding of Canada with 142.

Braves' Chief

Named manager of Atlanta Braves of the National League for 1968 is Luman C. Harris, 52, who pitched seven years with the former Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators. He has managed Braves' Richmond club in the International League this year. Billy Hitchcock was fired without notice Sept. 29, with Atlanta mired in seventh place in the standing.—(AP)

Scotch Cup Curling Needs New Sponsor

CALGARY (CP)—Two Canadian curling officials say they have been told the Scotch Whisky Association has dropped sponsorship of the Scotch Cup world curling championship.

Bill Lumsden of Winnipeg, president of the Dominion Curling Association, indicated that attempts are being made to secure Canadian sponsorship.

Charlie Scott of Calgary, secretary of the Southern Alberta Curling Association, said the Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland is investigating new sponsorship.

The annual competition began in 1959. Canadian rinks won the first six titles. A U.S. rink won in 1965, a Canadian entry in 1966 and a Scottish rink the 1967 cup in Scotland in March.

By DOUG YEARWOOD

Victoria High Tyees, defending Colonist Cup Champions, slid into sole possession of first place by defeating Esquimalt 3-0, at Vic High.

In the other game, Mt. Douglas and Oak Bay fought to a 2-2 draw at Oak Bay.

Keith Humphries scored first for Victoria on a pass from Ron Piatrowski. Piatrowski scored the Tyees' second goal and the third tally went in off an Esquimalt defender as Dan Kulai attempted to head the ball into the net.

Victoria completely dominated the second half, only allowing Esquimalt two shots from midfield.

TIE ON PENALTY KICK

At Mount View, Greg Williams scored from a corner-kick by Wayne Ruffle to give Claremont a first-half lead. Mark Robb and Bob Walker hit the cross-bar for Mount View in the second half and it wasn't until five minutes before time that the Hornets tied it on a penalty kick taken by Dennis Somner.

At Oak Bay, Lorne Bunyan scored on a breakaway through the middle to give Mt. Douglas a half-time lead. Peter Mason tied the score early in the second half but Darryl Hooker picked up a loose ball deep in the Oak Bay end and kicked it past goalkeeper Tom Holmes to put Mt. Douglas ahead for the second time.

SCORES TYING GOAL

Play resumes on Wednesday with Mt. Douglas hosting Victoria at Carnarvon Park, Oak Bay playing Mount View at Oak Bay, and Claremont visiting Esquimalt. All games start at 4 p.m.

Claremont Runners In Sweep

Claremont opened its cross-country season in convincing fashion Friday with both boys' and girls' teams winning by big margins.

Claremont took the first five places in the boys' three-mile event, Rob Irving leading the way in a record 15 minutes. Teammates Jim Barker, Steve Parkes, Dale Stewart and Doug Yearwood came second, third, fourth and fifth, respectively, as Claremont whipped Esquimalt with only 15 points in the reverse-order scoring.

Chris Pearson ran away from the pack in the girls' event. She travelled the 1.8 miles in 10 minutes, a full 41 seconds ahead of teammate Elizabeth Lax. Claremont's Mona McMillan and Nadine Simpson finished third and sixth, respectively.

Badminton Club Cuts Dues

Cordova Bay Badminton Club made a radical decision for these days of higher prices at its annual meeting this week.

It reduced its membership dues — to $25 for men and $20 for women on the recommendation of the new executive.

After Lorne McLean had been elected president, Joe Bryant named as vice-president and Bob Currie had taken over the duties of secretary-treasurer, the trio decided that it was feasible and in the best interests of the club to reduce membership fees.

It was the belief of the executive that membership strength would at least be maintained and would probably grow if fees were reduced.

The club will continue to play each Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday with the Thursday evening juniors again operating under the direction of city-champion Bob Hunt and Doug Boniface, co-holder of the city veterans' title.

Also confirmed at the meeting was the hosting of the 11th annual Vancouver Island Open championships. Bob McMurchie was named chairman for the event, which is scheduled for early February.

Ettinger Wins Rifle Crown

The former pistol ace upset 12 master class riflemen with a 279-10x aggregate. Master class honors went to Del Langham of Powell River with a 277-5x aggregate.

Other individual winners were Barnet Club of Burnaby members Roy McQuitty, Gladys Ball and M. Westergaard. The Barnet Club retained both the "A" and "B" team titles.

Chelsea Manager, Players Disciplined

LONDON (AP) — Tommy Docherty, controversial manager of Chelsea soccer team, resigned today after being suspended by the English Football Association because of alleged misconduct during Chelsea's tour of Bermuda last July.

An association spokesman said the suspension means Docherty must divorce himself completely from soccer for 28 days starting next Monday. He will not even be allowed to pay at the turnstiles to watch a game.

Chelsea—one of the top London clubs—played two games in Bermuda last July and two of its players, Tony Hateley and Barry Lloyd, were sent off the field.

The FA did not give details of Docherty's misconduct. Docherty, a former Scottish international, himself declined to tell reporters what happened.

But a source close to the Chelsea club said the manager was involved in "heated arguments" with Bermudan officials.

The FA fined Hateley £50 ($150) for using obscene language and suspended Lloyd for 14 days for kicking an opponent during the Bermudan tour.

Chelsea has since transferred Hateley to Liverpool for £100,000 ($300,000).

Stadium Opens

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new $1,200,000 stadium will be officially opened Saturday at the University of British Columbia. It will be called Thunderbird Stadium, and seat 3,000.

Education Research Passes First Crisis

By BILL STAVDAL
Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — The infant Educational Research Institute of B.C. passed its first crisis Friday when the B.C. School Trustees' Association voted to continue financial support.

The BCSTA, parent of the ERIBC, defeated a move to reduce this year's allocation from $100,000 to $30,000. The resolution was proposed by Burnaby.

MAJORITY AGREE

Despite some criticism of the institute's slowness in getting into the field of research, the majority of delegates at the Hotel Vancouver agreed with the stand of president Frank Beinder.

He said last year's creation of the institute with a $100,000 grant from the BCSTA was "the most significant single financial decision this organization has ever made."

The B.C. government conducts no education research, and the former B.C. Educational Research Council had a budget of less than $20,000 annually. It has since been absorbed into the ERIBC.

Membership in the ERIBC is held by all three public universities plus Notre Dame University in Nelson, the BCSTA, the B.C. Teachers' Federation, the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation, the Vancouver school board and the government Council of Public Instruction.

James Campbell of Saturna Island, vice-president of the BCSTA and chairman of the ERIBC's board of directors, said in his first report only one research project has been approved. It is a $5,000 study of adolescents in North Vancouver, where juveniles rioted on Halloween two years ago.

GET PRIORITY

Mr. Campbell said research priorities have been decided. Elementary-secondary education will get top priority, with pre-school next and post-secondary in third place.

Research having immediate application will get priority over pure research, and projects having province-wide application will get preference over strictly local schemes.

School Trustee Executive

Beinder In Again

Campbell

VANCOUVER (Staff) — Trail public relations executive Frank Beinder Friday became the second person voted a second term as president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Mr. Beinder defeated vice-president James Campbell's bid for the president's chair.

LATER RE-ELECTED

Mr. Campbell, a Saturna Island farmer, later was re-elected vice-president, beating three other candidates — directors Kenneth Boothe of Summerland and J. R. Lamont of Castlegar, and Peter Powell of North Vancouver.

In a subsequent election of two directors, Mr. Lamont retained his seat and Mr. Powell ousted Mr. Boothe.

Earlier in the convention, John Porteous of Victoria was chosen as the Vancouver Island branch's representative to the provincial executive. Mr. Porteous, a past chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, is president of the branch and replaces Pauline Touzeau of Qualicum on the executive.

TRADITION BROKEN

The convention broke with tradition to vote indemnities for the BCSTA president, vice-president, directors and past president.

The president was voted $3,000, the vice-president $1,500, and the directors and past president $750 each.

Quiet Approach Soothes Delegation from Victoria

VANCOUVER (Staff) — A strong attack by the Greater Victoria delegation on the leadership of the B.C. School Trustees' Association failed to materialize Friday as the convention ended.

Greater Victoria had been critical of the association executive for what it considered a lack of militancy in pressing its aims on the B.C. government, but two developments during the convention apparently changed local minds.

PORTEOUS ELECTED

Trustee John Porteous was elected to the executive and Greater Victoria chairman Peter Bunn had a meeting with President Frank Biender, who has said many times he prefers the quiet approach to the government.

As the convention was ending, the more than 400 delegates adopted an executive resolution advocating a single, B.C.-wide annual bargaining on teachers' salaries. It combined previous similar requests for zone-wide and province-wide negotion.

The resolution included a call for "realistic regional and district differentials." The B.C. Teachers' Federation opposes zone or provincial talks, preferring bargaining between individual school boards and teachers' associations.

Another resolution proposed by the executive sought legislation to bar pricipals and supervisors from membership in local BCTF associations. It would not ban their membership in the provincial body.

The resolution was opposed by Vancouver trustee Eva New, who said: "It is none of our business as trustees to butt into the teachers' federation."

'OUR BUSINESS'

But the majority of delegates agreed with Prince George trustee J. G. Wilson, who replied: "As employers of these people, surely it is our business."

In other resolutions, the BCSTA asked the provincial government to increase financial support of regional colleges by 50 per cent, to allow boys' and girls' dressing rooms in elementary schools, and for school board representation on proposed regional boards of health.

ELECTIVE COURSE

Also asked to the government were treatment facilities for emotionally disturbed children, leadership in educational television, driver training in the schools, and an elective course in computer operation.

Next year's convention will be held in the Bayshore Inn in Vancouver.

Businessmen's Goal

Spiritual Life In Fellowship

Catholic nuns, Anglican ministers and ministers of other faiths mingled with laymen at the Empress Hotel Friday during the annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Regional Full Gospel Businessmen's International.

"We had a lady here who is a Christian Scientist," said Jack Yates, Victoria Businessman who is a member of the group.

The convention, which has drawn about 200 delegates from the U.S. and Canada, will conclude today.

HONOR CANADA

"To honor Canada's Centenary we held it here in Victoria this year," Mr. Yates said.

Asked the purpose of the convention, he said it was more of a fellowship meeting than anything.

CROSSES LINES

"We find that people are hungry for real spiritual experience," he said, "and in our fellowship they find it. This fellowship crosses all lines of religion and creed and helps us to communicate with one another."

Friday's meetings began with prayer at 7 a.m. followed by breakfast at 8 a.m.

Mr. Yates said the noon meetings were well attended. There was a ministers' seminar and an afternoon teaching meeting after separate lunch meetings for men and women.

CHILDREN MEET

A public meeting was held at 8 p.m. and a children's meeting at 7.45 p.m.

There are prayer and breakfast meetings today at 7 and 8 a.m., a students's seminar at noon, an afternoon teaching meeting. In the evening there will be an adult banquet at 6:30 p.m. and a youth banquet at the same time. There will be another children's meeting at 7.45 p.m.

Sunday Choirs Rehearse

Victoria choirs participating in the Centennial Thanksgiving service in Memorial Arena at 7:30 p.m. Sunday will rehearse in Metropolitan United Church at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The rehearsal will be conducted by Rodney Webster, with Richard Proudman at the organ. The mass choir will sing the Centennial Anthem and The Heavens Are Telling (from Haydn's Creation.

First Church Plans Play

The United Church's Centennial play Cantata For Derelicts, written by P. W. Turner, will be produced in First United Church late in November by the New World Players.

Campus Classrooms Feel Space Worries

By STEVE HUME

Student population at the university, presently at 4,075, has tripled during the past seven years, and there is a 19 per cent increase over last year's enrolment. The estimated figure for the 1967-68 session was approximately 5 per cent under actual enrolment figures.

BIG INCREASE

Enrolment has doubled in two academic areas that went into operation last year. The school of fine arts added 51 students for a total of 88, while the school of graduate studies jumped from 49 to 96 students.

And according to university officials, funds for building expansion are several years away. This means a larger number of students and faculty will have to be crammed into the existing classroom space.

"We have consistently underestimated our population," said the university's registrar Dean R. R. Jeffels.

SPECIAL REPORT

He said a special committee has been established by President Malcolm Taylor in order to bring out a revised forecast for next year. The report will be available in about six weeks.

Dean Jeffels said there is also a problem in lack of office space and that some of the faculty are doubling-up in offices.

The squeeze for space is being felt already in some areas.

The university's head librarian, D. W. Halliwell, reports current library facilities are inadequate for the number of graduate students on campus.

FUNDS GONE

The last of the university's funds, drawn from the Tri-Universities Fund, have been exhausted on the mens' residences, and money for further expansion is not available, Mr. Halliwel. said.

The lack of space, coupled with a faculty shortage, prevented more than 600 graduate students from enroling at the University of Victoria this year.

The head of the university's school of graduate studies, Dr. M. H. Scargill, said 700 applications for enrolment were received last spring.

COURSES FOR ALL

At present the university offers graduate programs in the departments of biology, geography, linguistics, psychology, chemistry, history, physics and education.

And next September the graduate school will expand, with more of the humanities departments offering courses in graduate studies.

The increase in graduate students will not create an immediate problem, but Dean Jeffels expects another large increase in undergraduates for the next winter session.

"To combat the problem we can either start the day earlier, run classes later in the evening or schedule them at noon hours.

"There is no way of fitting in any extra classes due to enrollment and course changes without juggling the timetable," he said.

'The latter possibility seems to be the most immediate solution, and noon hour classes seem almost a certainty," he said.

Department May Study Marijuana

The University of Victoria's psychology department is interested in the possibility of doing research into the drug marijuana.

Dr. Gordon Hobson, acting head of the psychology department, has written to Ottawa requesting information on the possibility of doing research into the controversial drug.

"We don't know if any work on this problem is taking place in the country currently and we would like to find out if it is legally possible to do research with the drug," he said.

The students' council this week passed a motion supporting the establishment of a marijuana research body to study the uses of marijuana.

Joint Prayer Marks Special Day

* * *

In City Churches

Thanksgiving Sunday will be observed in most Victoria churches with special services.

Today and Sunday have been designated as days of prayer throughout British Columbia. At 7:15 p.m. Sunday there will be an inter-denominational church service in Memorial Arena to mark the occasion of the centenary of Canada's Confederation and to celebrate Thanksgiving.

Many Victoria churches have cancelled Sunday evening services in order to take part.

In Christ Church Cathedral, Psalm 65 will be sung at least once Sunday, Rev. Roy Hoult said.

"It is a great hymn of praise to God for his blessings of harvest," he said. "Christian people use this psalm as the Hebrews did for the celebration of the harvest. But we must never forget that man does not live by bread alone. There is heavenly food which we must seek. The river of God for us is the stream of the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ.

"He is the husbandman and the shepherd. We are the harvest of grain. We are his flock. We look forward to the crowning of time, when time is swallowed up in eternity."

Archbishop Harold Sexton will give the thanksgiving message.

Church Birthday

Fairfield United Church will celebrate its 55th anniversary and Thanksgiving as well in services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Guest preacher at both services will be Rev. William Van Druten of Vancouver, who was well-known as a postman in the Fairfield area and had tremendous success with boys' work in the area.

He decided to go into the ministry as a candidate from Fairfield Church and subsequently held pastorates in Nanaimo and at Gordon United in Langford. He now is senior minister in South Burnaby United Church.

Central Baptist Church begins the 41st year of its ministry in Victoria and the founder of the church, Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor emeritus, will give the Thanksgiving messages. At 11 a.m. he will preach on All His Benefits and at 7 p.m. his subject will be God's Unspeakable Gift. The youth choir will sing at both services.

□

Dr. J. L. W. McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church returns to his pulpit Sunday morning. Dr. and Mrs. McLean have spent the past three months in New Zealand and Australia.

Special services will be held in Parkdale Evangelical Free Church. The Sunday school and the congregation will combine at 10:30 a.m. for the Thanksgiving service.

Rev. Tudor Jones, national home director for North America for the Japan Evangelistic Band, will be guest speaker. He will also preach at an afternoon service at 3 p.m.

Induction Plans

□

In First Church of Christ Scientist, Chambers and Pandora, Sunday's lesson-sermon will be based on the question, Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?

The church's Thanksgiving service will be held at 11 a.m. Monday. This service is held each year throughout the world and will include passages from the Bible and the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

At the close of the lesson, the meeting is opened for expressions from the congregation of thanksgiving and gratitude for divine healing, comfort and guidance.

Keynote for the service will be the golden text from Psalms: "O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise."

How to Say Thank you is the theme of the sermon in First United Church at the family Thanksgiving service at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. Rev. Marvin Fowler and Rob Nelson will conduct it, and the junior choir will sing.

At 11 a.m., Mr. Fowler will preach on the subject, What More Do We Need? Vernon Richards will share in the conduct of the service and David Conrad will be soloist.

Special Parade

At St. John's Anglican Church, there will be special centennial Thanksgiving services in the morning, with color parties of Girl Guides and Boy Scouts and other uniformed organizations taking part at both services.

At 11 a.m. Bishop Henry Martin will dedicate the national flag.

In Metropolitan United Church, family worship and service of thanksgiving will be combined at 11 a.m. when Rev. Albert King speaks on The Efficacy of Thanksgiving. Frank Tupman will conduct the sanctuary choir, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

□

In James Bay United Church the harvest festival of service of praise will be conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday by Rev. Dr. M. W. Lees. His sermon will be Count Your Blessings. The Sunday school is joining with the congregation for the service and the junior choir and soloist Mrs. W. Snape.

In Victoria Truth Centre, Dr. Emma Smiley will speak on Thanksgiving at 11 a.m. Sunday. Her subject at 7:30 p.m. will be You Are Entitled to Abundance.

Tuesday afternoon healing meetings are held at 3 p.m. Wednesday evening meetings this month, at 8 p.m., have as their theme The Healings of the Bible.

Canada will be Rev. H. R. Whitmore's Thanksgiving theme at 10 a.m. Sunday in Garden City United Church and at 11:15 a.m. in Wilkinson Road Church.

Time for Work

The fourth commandment contains two commandments, not one, Rev. Norman Archer of Emmanuel Baptist Church said Friday.

"At first glance," he said, "it appears that the law is merely demanding that the Sabbath should be kept holy. But a closer look shows the statement contains two commandments.

"It is a command to work on six days as well as rest on one. Some grieve that the Sabbath is profaned. We cannot wonder at it, when the six days of labor are equally profaned.

"There is nothing that prepares a man's heart for a day of worship better than six days of work, well done."

Mr. Archer will preach on this subject at morning worship in his church. In the evening he will continue his series on Victorious Living.

□

The senior class of the Sunday school will decorate St. Aidan's Church for morning worship when Rev. A. G. MacLeod's subject will be Thanksgiving. Singers will be Wendy Cox and the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Vera Barclay, with soloists Marjorie Sturgeon, Robert Williams and Roy Watson.

In Victoria Unitarian Church, services will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday. W. T. Lawson, supervisor of group homes for the Family and Children's Service of Victoria, will speak on Youth and Violence at both services.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, a taped presentation by Murray Banks, entitled How to Live with Yourself, will be given, followed by a discussion period.

Anglicans Hungry

There'll be some hungry young Anglicans in town this Sunday. A number of them, aged 16 to 21, will be free for dinner from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. between sessions of the Anglican Young People's Association conference. Anyone wishing to set an extra place Sunday can arrange it by phoning 658-5861 or 382-9039.

Happy With Harvest

Pumpkins, squash, apples and grapes spell out harvest and Thanksgiving — and Saanichton area is good place to find them. Photographer Robin Clarke caught spirit of season when he took son Christopher, 2½, and daughter Cathleen, 4½, on hunt for produce. They found it near St. Stephen's Anglican Church on Mount Newton Cross Road where their parents were married and both children were christened.

Nasser Sends His Best

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's President Nasser sent greetings Thursday to the Egyptian Jewish community on the occasion of the Jewish New Year, the official Middle East news agency reported. Nasser sent his secretary, Nabil Fatah Elbab, to the Jews' Grand Synagogue in downtown Cairo to convey his greetings, it added.

Aid for Civilians

Meal Stresses Viet Need

A Meal of Identification — termed a Thanksgiving non-feast — will be held at 7 p.m. today in Metropolitan United Church's Pendray Hall.

The symbolic supper of rice and tea is being served to identify with the people of Vietnam.

Chairman of the dinner is Rev. Laura Butler and the speaker, Dr. Henry Mayer, will give a doctor's report on Vietnam. The dinner is sponsored by the Victoria Commission of the Canadian Aid for Vietnam Civilians.

RECENTLY RETURNED

Dr. Mayer, who lives in Redwood City, Calif., has recently returned from Vietnam where he visited hospitals and medical centres in the south. His talk will be illustrated, and voluntary donations will be used for Vietnam relief.

Claude Crosby will give a report on the Vancouver Medical Aid Committee and there will be a brief business session on plans for Victoria.

Cathedral Weekend

Young Anglicans Sing, Discuss

About 300 young people are expected in Victoria this weekend for the 37th provincial youth conference of the Anglican Young People's Association.

Delegates will be here until Monday for sessions in the parish hall of Christ Church Cathedral.

Theme of the conference, Christian Man and His World, will be discussed at a banquet tonight followed by a dance.

There will be a sing-in, a folk mass, elections, business meetings and many discussions.

Theme speaker is Father Gavin Rumsey, staff priest at Rossland, past member of the A.Y.P.A. and counsellor in Vancouver and Interior parishes.

Father Rumsey was raised in Creston Valley and spent four years as a banker before going to UBC and entering the priesthood. He will give addresses on The Realities of the World We Live In; How Can the Church Bring the Gospel to the World?, and What Kind of Christian Persons are Needed to Minister in Our World?

Social Action Study Arranged for Rally

The Victoria Presbyterial United Church Women will hold their fall rally in First United Church, starting with registration at 1 p.m. Oct. 18.

Guest speaker at 3 p.m. will be Mrs. D. Allardice, executive director of the Elizabeth Fry Society of Vancouver.

A panel discussion on Social Action—Church and Community will take place at 8 p.m. with Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, as chairman.

Greece Plans 1,944 Schools

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek government has ordered construction of 1,944 schools throughout the country. An education ministry announcement said both elementary and high schools are to be built between now and the end of the year. Most of them, it added, will be in rural areas.

Opinions on Birth Control Asked For — In Writing

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul will ask Catholic prelates at the synod of bishops for their written opinions on the controversial birth control question, synod sources said Friday.

Observers believed the move might be intended to forestall any attempt by the bishops to introduce debate on the touchy issue.

The 70-year-old pontiff had been widely expected to present the bishops with his long-awaited decision on whether to modify the existing church ban artificial birth control during the synod's current discussions on "dangerous errors of doctrine."

FURTHER DELAY

But observers said the final decision probably would be further delayed to give the Pope time to consider the bishops' responses.

Although sessions of the month-long synod were supposed to have been held in strict secrecy, reports of its deliberations have leaked out daily since the working session began last Saturday.

Asking for opinions on the birth control question in writing it was believed the pontiff hoped to avoid publicity being given to individual opinions which could touch off a new grassroots debate by Catholics around the world.

VIEWS PREPARED

A number of bishops were known to have come to Rome with prepared views on birth control although the subject was not among the five agenda topics on which Pope Paul asked the synod's views.

Observers said while the pontiff already had extensive opinions from leading Catholic prelates and experts both in and outside the church, he wanted to avoid any charge he had prohibited the synod from expressing its views on so urgent a question.

Pope Paul announced during the 1962-65 ecumenical council he was reserving for himself the decision on whether to modify existing birth control rules which prohibit any form of artificial contraception.

A number of the more than 180 cardinals and bishops at the synod Friday again criticized a Vatican-prepared document outlining "dangerous errors" of modern doctrinal interpretations ranging from the "death of God" theology to doubts about the accuracy of the Bible as history.

So many bishops have criticized the Vatican document as too negative, unclear or superficial that some synod sources privately speculated it may be rejected altogether.

Quartet Of Nuns Appointed

VATICAN CITY (AP) — With authorization from Pope Paul, four nuns have been assigned to the Roman Catholic Church's Congregation for the Religious.

Vatican sources said it is the first time women have been made part of the personnel of any of the congregations, or major departments, which direct church affairs.

Those named were of four different nationalities: French, Spanish, British and German.

Witty Writer Dies At 60 in London

LONDON (AP)—Eddy Gilmore, a Pulitzer Prize-winning correspondent of The Associated Press who reported the Second World War and post-war Stalin era in Russia, died of a heart attack Friday night at his home near London. He was 60.

Before and after his years in Russia, Gilmore was widely known for his witty news stories on the lighter side of life and even in Moscow he wrote with a light touch at times between the grimmer episodes.

Gilmore is survived by his Russian-born wife, the former Tamara Chernashova; three daughters and a son.

Gilmore's wartime romance with Tamara, a dancer, was carried on over obstacles put between foreigners and Russian citizens by the suspicious officials of Stalin's time.

Tamara was banished by the regime. Gilmore by this time had become a friend of the late Wendell Willkie, the 1940 U.S. Republican presidential nominee.

Willkie offered to help Gilmore and by interceding at the Kremlin, where he had access as unofficial goodwill ambassador of a wartime ally, had Tamara returned to Moscow, where the Gilmores were married.

Through the war and afterward marriages of Russians with foreigners were viewed with suspicion and it was not until after Stalin's death that Gilmore was able to leave Russia with Tamara. They settled in London.

Nuggets Delight In Fine Play

By BILL THOMAS

Just Wild About Harry is the Henry Miller play that gets headlines because of its four-letter words. What a pity.

Harry is a fine play and 200 fans at the McPherson Playhouse showed Friday just how good it really is by applauding John Stark's production from Vancouver.

Watching this cast is like eating blue cheese — the whole thing is good but once in a while there are crumbs that are a pure delight.

Harry is played by John-Destry Adams. He took a while to warm up but his second act is one of the best bits of acting that has gone on the boards in this city in some time. It is to be hoped that the Canadian Arts Theatre, company will bring him back again.

Jeanie, played by Anne Hungerford, is his girlfriend and also a joy to watch. But then these are the body of the cheese.

The nuggets of delight come from the bit players who are all tops.

A hunchback played by Cecil Glass is a lesson in character acting for any of our local talent. Mr. Glass is worthy of the Fays of Dublin. A truly stimulating and at once sensitive performance that overshadowed that of even Mr. Adams in the first act.

A bartender part is done to a turn by Reg Romero and is again an object lesson in a character part.

Nancy Failes is excellent as a tart with a heart. It's a traditional role and one that will not be at all unfamiliar to Henry Miller fans.

It would be quite unfair to comment on this play without mentioning designer Rudiger Tamschick. His sets, especially one of a sleazy bar, are well conceived and executed.

Just Wild About Harry will be offered at 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. today and is really worth seeing. I urge you not to miss it.

Error, Not Theft Laid to Cashier

NEW YORK (UPI) — Theft was virtually ruled out Friday in the case of $1,700,000 worth of negotiable securities missing in one of the weirdest snafus in Wall Street history.

Police said they were "99 per cent convinced" that the notes, payable to the bearer, were brought to the wrong window for delivery Thursday.

They were delivered to Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. by Manufacturers' Hanover Trust Co., which owned them, in exchange for securities of equal value.

A Morgan Guaranty spokesman said the receiving teller realized the bonds had been brought to the wrong window and returned them—but to the wrong messenger.

The teller did not discover his mistake until the Hanover messenger, who had been waiting near the window, informed him his briefcase had not been returned.

Authorities said they are convinced the notes are in the vaults of another firm and will probably turn up. They bore the maturity date of May 15, 1968.

Judge Regrets Drug Sentence

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A judge handed down a seven-year prison sentence on a youth convicted of importing marijuana, then said the sentence was too heavy.

Judge Frank Wilson said in county court here Thursday that he had no option but to impose the sentence, which he said was the minimum provided by the law. Maximum penalty under the Narcotics Control Act is life imprisonment.

Brian Ross Boyer, described in court as a 19-year-old unemployed musician, was charged with importing from the United States 22 pounds of marijuana with an underworld market value of $28,080.

After passing sentence, the judge said he would do what he could through the federal probationary branch to help Boyer, whom he described as not a person with a vicious character but one who had been misled.

Boyer and Dexter Charles Howell, both of West Vancouver, were charged March 15 after customs officers at the U.S. border crossing at nearby Aldergrove, B.C., found marijuana under the rear seat of a car in which they were riding.

Howell was found not guilty.

At his trial Boyer testified he knew nothing about the marijuana and that he had borrowed the car from a Vancouver man to go for a ride. He said he and Howell crossed into Washington State, then returned.

Boyer said he never examined the back seat of the car and did not know who placed the marijuana under the rear seat.

Law Turns Into 'Horror'

Attorney-General Bonner said Friday he is "highly disturbed by a Supreme Court of Canada judgment which will give juveniles permanent criminal records for minor offences.

He said B.C. is considering whether to ask the federal government to change the Juvenile Delinquents Act or whether to request a review of the decision.

Three years ago the attorney-general's department began charging juveniles who broke traffic regulations under municipal bylaws or provincial statutes, rather than under the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

The purpose of such procedure was to avoid giving juveniles criminal records.

"This national law," said Mr. Bonner, "was set up to protect young people and now has become a horror."

He said the ruling in the Supreme Court of Canada would mean that juvenile offenders would get permanent criminal records for such things as failing to provide reflectors for their bicycles.

"This would be an atrocious situation," he said, "because adults or those over 18 would not be saddled with criminal records for minor traffic offences."

Gas Strike Made Close to Island

Shell Canada Ltd. said Friday the offshore rig Sedco 135-F encountered a gas pocket three weeks ago in its offshore drilling program west of Vancouver Island.

Drilling now is deep into the second well of a two-to-five year program.

A Shell spokesman at exploration and development headquarters in Calgary said in a telephone interview there was "certainly an incident when some mud was blown out of the hole" during drilling.

"To drilling crews this was a routine thing," the spokesman said, but to inexperienced support crews it may have seemed more significant and this may account for rumors that have been circulating in the industry in recent weeks concerning gas showings.

It is perfectly normal for gas pockets to be struck during the course of deep drilling, the Shell official said.

British Columbia department of mines and petroleum resources said that such gas shows may be insignificant.

PIONEERS

On the other hand, he said Shell is pioneering the discovery of submarine earth formations. Up to now very little has been discosed of this type of geology on the West Coast and Shell has the right to keep information secret.

The fact that the drill is apparently still in sedimentary type rock is encouraging them to continue, he said.

Car Plants Again At Work

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Friday agreed to reopen three struck plants in Michigan and Ohio which make parts for American Motors Corp.

The decision to open the three plants came after AMC told Ford and the union it might have to cease operation by the end of this month because it was running out of some parts.

Ten workers have already been sent back to work at two parts plants in Detroit to process parts for shipment to Vietnam.

UAW President Walter Reuther, before the strike began at Ford Sept. 6, had said any operations necessary to supply companies that were not struck would be maintained or reopened.

Parades Mark RCAF Rites

LAHR, West Germany (CP) —The RCAF celebrated formal inauguration of its European headquarters in this Black Forest town Friday with parades, flags and a spectacular show of jet flying.

German and French dignitaries as well as local townsfolk joined Canadians in ceremonies confirming the RCAF command over the Lahr headquarters base in succession to the French Air Force.

Leo Cadieux, Canada's new defence minister, and Gen. Johann Steinhoff, inspector-general of the West German Air Force, expressed best wishes for a smooth operation.

* * *

Gen. Steinhoff said the RCAF i- especially welcome "because they helped us train pilots and provided us with equipment and a-craft when we were building up the Luftwaffe" after the Second World War.

"I would not be a realist if I did not understand that the local population had been awaiting the arrival of the Canadians with some apprehension," he said. "There are bound to be unpleasant side-effects when a modern air force is operating in a civilian area, but I hope Canadians will soon feel at home here and I am sure Canadians and Germans will live together without reservation or friction."

B.C. Employees Approve Wage Drive

PENTICTON (CP) — Resolutions to achieve wages and working conditions comparable to those in private industry have been approved by delegates to the 24th annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees Association.

The 68 delegates also voted to intensify efforts to gain bargaining rights with the provincial government.

In other resolutions, delegates sought comparable danger pay rates with occupations represented by organized labor. These occupations included persons who drive trucks, snow plows and sanders.

A resolution calling for across-the-broad percentage increases was defeated after Arnie Eivindson of Alberni said the resolution would hurt lower wage-earners.

Garden Notes

Hygiene Beats Slugs

By M. V. CHESNUT

In yesterday's column, while yakking away about hygiene and sanitation in the garden, I made passing mention of the necessity of cleaning out the hedge bottom. This is a very important part of the fall clean-up, for the hedge seems to be something of a catch-all, trapping leaves, twigs, hedge prunings, torn paper and other wind-blown junk. Not only is such rubbish untidy and unsightly, but it is also a positive source of danger to our garden plants.

For one thing, such litter provides an ideal breeding ground for slugs, and these slimy snails-without-a-shell are becoming a major headache to gardeners hereabouts. Ordinary insecticides have little or no effect upon them, while expensive slug baits and slug pellets account for only a very small proportion of the slug population. Only good garden sanitation can hold down their numbers.

Slugs cannot live for long in dry, sunlit places, for they die when the mucous slime coating their bodies is allowed to dry out. They seek cool, moist, shaded places for their hide-outs — hedge bottom litter, odd boards and bits of lumber, under flower pots, tin cans, junk of any kind.

I think the worst concentration of slugs I ever saw was under an up-ended wheelbarrow that had been left undisturbed for months at the far end of a friend's garden. There must have been thousands of the slimy beasts in an area of about a square yard. They were easy to kill in such a concentration — lacking any metaldehyde slug-killer, we sprinkled 'em with ammonium sulphate lawn fertilizer — but they shouldn't have been provided with such a congenial breeding ground in the first place.

Another important clean-up job is to pull up all garden stakes, bean poles and pea sticks, storing the best of them for next year's use and burning the discards. The ends that have been in the soil may be charred lightly to disinfect them. Bits of twine around the stakes and strings which have supported vines should all go on the fire — rough woolly twine in particular is a favorite spot for insect eggs.

Those green-painted bamboo stakes are becoming increasingly popular in the garden as they are inexpensive, inconspicuous, light and very rigid, but they pose some special problems in garden hygiene. The stems are hollow, and those hollow ends are notorious hidey-holes for pests, pest eggs and blights. I don't think it pays to try to clean them out — just cut them back to the next knot and burn the hollow ends.

I use tree branches for all kinds of jobs in the garden and can never get enough of them. I spread them over newly seeded patches in the lawn to discourage traffic, to stick peas and support sweet peas and nasturtium vines. In winter, spare branches are spread at strategic places on the lawn where folks are inclined to take short-cuts across the grass, for traffic can be very damaging to frosted turf.

With never enough branches to go round, I am compelled to save them from year to year, but during the fall clean-up they are inspected carefully for cocoons and for little patches of bright red or orange fungus on the bark. This is coral spot, a fungus infection which can be very damaging to a number of trees and shrubs.

A critical reader once asked me how I could reconcile the spreading of filthy manure in the garden with my passion for sanitation and hygiene. I just don't consider manure filthy. True, it is teeming with germs, but they are mostly beneficial bacteria, highly necessary for healthy plant growth. Moreover, there is a certain something in manure which has an antibiotic effect, actually suppressing certain plant diseases.

ARTHUR HOPPE Looks for a Good Way Out

Lesser of Two Weevils

Once upon a time an army of boll weevils, drums beating and banners flying invaded a lovely-looking cotton patch.

"We are here to honor our sacred commitments," said a Big Boll Weevil, "to freedom, acreage allotments, democracy, tastier cotton and all that we boll weevils hold near and dear."

Unfortunately, however, while the cotton patch looked lovely from afar, it wasn't. The sun was too sunny, the rain too rainy and the muck incredibly mucky. As for the cotton itself it wasn't tasty at all. It was icky and sticky and virtually unfit for boll weevil consumption.

"I had one too many nips of cotton last night," moaned one boll weevil, "and this morning my mouth tastes like a dry martini."

In no time at all, the boll weevils were sick and tired of the whole thing. And all they cared about was finding a way out of the mess they'd gotten into.

★ ★ ★

"But of course," said one, "it must be a Good Way Out." And the rest nodded, for they all devoutly believed in doing the right thing.

"The only Good Way Out," said the Big Boll Weevil, "is to escalate our attack and eat our way clean through the cotton patch until we emerge totally victorious on the other side. Follow me!"

The boll weevils thought this over and shook their heads. "It's too far," said one. "We'll never make it," said another. "Who wants more of what we've got?" said a third with a shudder. And they all agreed that this certainly wan't a Good Way Out.

"If we can't go on and we can't stay here," he said, "it's obvious that we must go back the way we came. Would anyone care to follow me?"

★ ★ ★

The boll weevils were shocked. "What, cut and run?" cried one. "Would you have us dishonor our sacred commitments?" gasped another. "Such talk," said a third grimly, "gives aid and comfort to the cotton patch." And they all agreed that this certainly wasn't a Good Way Out.

So the Big Boll Weevil marched off for Total Victory. Just as you might expect, he soon collapsed of acid indigestion and tired blood. So that wasn't a Good Way Out.

And the Small Boll Weevil crawled home, his tail between his 56 legs. Just as you might expect, he had some initial pang of guilt which marred his otherwise long and fruitful life. So that wasn't a Good Way Out.

As for the rest of the weevils, they sat around waiting for someone to come along with a Good Way Out. So a farmer came along, noted the infestation and reluctantly set fire to the patch, thus burning up all the cotton. And all the weevils, too.

★ ★ ★

Moral: Always look for the good way out. And then, life being what it is, follow the lesser of two weevils.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Woman Without a Country

NEW YORK (NANA) — "What more can I say?" said Melina Mercouri in despondent tones. "So," she added philosophically, "I prefer not to talk about anything. Not even Greece." Melina, who has been starring on Broadway for nine months in Ilya Darling, is, as you must know, passionately against the current Greek government, has protested vociferously the cancellation of her Greek citizenship and has marched outside the White House and the United Nations, where she tried unsuccessfully to get a letter through to the young King of Greece.

"I have nowhere a home," she continued with a mixture of defiance and gloom. "Dassin and I just rented an apartment here for three months. After that who knows? No, I will not become an American citizen. No, no, that would be a catastrophe. I am not the only one who is in this situation and I could not desert the others."

Melina signed for one year with Ilya Darling. She will leave the show in three months and "take a long rest. I must have a vacation." She doesn't know where. Melina is positive the day will come when she will retrieve her citizenship and be able to return to the land of her birth.

★ ★ ★

Signe Hasso signed for the Lotte Lenya role in the U.S. national company of Cabaret, with Lee Fuchs . . . Dame Flora Robson playing a Greek-speaking witch doctor in Cry in the Wind had a tough time synchronating the right mouthing with the Greek actress who dubbed her dialogue. Dame Flora said she made sure of the swear words and learned the beginning and end in Greek so she could open her mouth and shut it at the right second.

★ ★ ★

Sam Goldwyn, Jr. is in the throes of the most intensive talent search since Kubrick-Harris went looking for Lolita. Sam requires a boy and girl teen-ager for Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones. The same twosome could then play John Wayne's son and his girl friend in April Morning—1776, which John Ford will come out of semi-retirement to direct.

★ ★ ★

I thought Peter O'Toole was set for the musical remake of Mr. Chips, but now I hear rumbles of Paul Scofield playing the kindly old schoolmaster. Who can ever forget Robert Donat in the original? Actually, Scofield would be better for Chips than O'Toole, except for the fact that he would have to sing 10 songs. I doubt whether Peter can sing, either. Lee Remick is definite for Mrs. Chips and is practicing her matronly manners like mad . . . Next for Lee, The Detective, in which she plays Frank Sinatra's wife—a nymphomaniac.

SYDNEY HARRIS Comments on Behaviorism

Trivial Acts Revealing

A gaggle of women invaded the house the other evening to help address invitations to a ball. When they had departed, I counted five partly-used packs of cigarettes that had been left in various places.

Women are always leaving cigarette packages around; even those women who normally don't forget their gloves and purse. I think this unconscious "forgetting" represents a deep desire to give up smoking because it is an unfeminine habit.

Apparently trivial actions of this sort tell us more about people's motivations than their obvious traits. For instance, there is a certain kind of person who will ask for a light and then "absent-mindedly" slip the matches into his own pocket.

This person would not think of taking anything else of yours, but matches symbolize warmth and light, and the match-thief unconsciously desires to "borrow" this security from other people.

Another unconscious reaction of the same kind can be seen in regard to pencils. Some people, when a delivery boy comes to the door, sign the slip with his pencil — then keep it.

But the pencil-keepers are not the same people as the match-thieves. The latter are looking for security, while the former want to take command. If you will notice closely, you will see that people who keep your matches tend to be the dependent type, while people who pilfer your pencils are agressive. Almost never does the same person take both.

These observations of mine may strike you as silly or unverified by enough observation — but I cam convinced that all apparently "pointless" behaviour has a great deal of point. It was this belief, in fact, that prompted Freud to begin his profound researches into the hidden motives of the personality.

"I did a crazy thing last night," one friend will confess to another; but conversation soon reveals that the "crazy" think makes a great deal of sense in terms of the person's unconscious desires and demands.

Professional poker players know that the trivial habits of their opponents — cracking knuckles, humming, or twitching the nostrils — are better indications of the hands they hold than any "poker face" that they are consciously keeping in rigid immobility. What we are unaware we are doing is usually the most accurate index of the secret self.

The minimum fine of $50 was levied in central magistrate's court Friday against a motorist who pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Magistrate William Ostler said he viewed the case as one worthy of the "compassion of the court."

NO PRECEDENT

"It is not to be taken in any way as a precedent," he added.

Second Walkout Continues

'We Haven't Proved Anything' Plywood Strikers Return

By LEN BEAUDRY

The 400 striking employees at the B.C. Forest Products plywood mill here have agreed to return to work Tuesday, Victoria IWA president Murray Drew said Friday.

"The company agreed to certain propositions but refused final agreement until the men returned to work," he said.

Mr. Drew was referring to action taken at a meeting between company representatives and union officials Friday morning. This was followed by a meeting between union officials and the striking employees Friday afternoon.

UNANIMOUS VOTE

Plant chairman Jack Burt said that the men voted unanimously to return to their jobs.

"We had to go back before the company would negotiate," he said. "They told us that under no circumstances would they negotiate until we went back on the job."

"We haven't proved anything one way or the other by the strike," he said. "There have been no changes and there won't be any changes until we can sit down together and talk."

AFTER RETURN

Mr. Drew said that the company had agreed to talk over differences with the employees' plant committee after the men returned to their jobs. He said that the company has agreed not to take any disciplinary actions against the strikers.

The 400 workers went on strike Wednesday morning to protest the company's hiring of efficiency experts.

Mill manager T. D. R. Humphreys said Friday that the "scheduling people" were in the plant for several months, completing their work at the end of September.

NORMAL OPERATIONS

Mr. Humphreys said, "We have been advised by the union that the employees will return to work on Tuesday and normal operations will resume at that time. It has been agreed that no problems will be discussed until the employees return to work."

Saturday and Sunday are not working days at the mill, and Monday is the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

On another troubled labor front here, Van Isle Moulding and Millwork president Peter Brotherston indicated Friday that the prospects are dim for an early settlement of a dispute involving 35 employees at his plant.

THREE DAYS AGO

The employees went on strike three days ago when negotiations for a new contract settlement broke down. The employees are seeking higher wages.

Union representatives met for three hours with company officials to discuss the workers' demands, but no agreement could be reached.

"We are seeking an adjustment in wage scale in line with other companies in the same line of business," said Mr. Drew.

ALREADY REASONABLE

"We do not want to create any loss of production on the part of the company," he added.

But Mr. Brotherston said, "We think that we already paying reasonable wages. I can't foresee any settlement. The situation remains the same as it was when the men walked off the job."

Al

* * *

A small flurry of sighs went through the council chamber at City Hall on Friday morning when Mayor Hugh Stephen escorted Prince Harald of Norway to the dais.

The tall young man in the blue uniform piped with red was undeniably handsome and made an impression unmatched since Princess Alexandra visited the municipal headquarters.

Met by Mayor

He was met at the Pandora Street entrance by Mayor and Mrs. Stephen and he and his retinue were conducted to the council chamber. There he met the members of city council and the heads of neighboring municipalities.

In a brief address, Mayor Stephen recalled that Norwegians settled Bella Coola in 1894 and since that time there had been a steady stream to British Columbia, which was homeland to a quarter of the 150,000 in Canada.

Sterling Bowl

They brought with them special talents, the mayor added, and contributed immeasurably to the growth of the province and particularly to its lumbering and fishing industries.

The mayor presented the prince with a replica of the city's coat-of-arms and in return received an enamelled sterling bowl and a picture of the prince.

In almost unaccented English the prince responded to the mayor's remarks with a short graceful talk in which he expressed the usual amenities.

In the forefront of an audience of about 150 in the council chamber was a row of women wearing colorful native costumes. The largest part of the audience was made up of Norwegian-Canadians, most of them members of the Sons of Norway Lodge in Victoria.

The prince signed the visitors' book with a strong "Harald," after which he was conducted across Centennial Square in a slight drizzling rain to the Senior Citizens' Activity Centre where he admired a display of handicraft done by the members.

At the conclusion of the visit to the City Hall the cavalcade, which included the usual motorcycle outriders and various red-coated Mounties, drove to the Union Club where an official luncheon was given by the province.

Signs Book

After luncheon it was back to Government House and from there at 2:30 p.m. to the airport where he boarded a plane for Vancouver.

Earlier, the prince was received at the Legislative Buildings by Attorney-General Bonner, representing Premier Bennett. He signed the visitors' book and examined some of the exhibits in the buildings.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

October 7, 1867

At an early hour yesterday morning the family of Mr. T. L. Fawcett who resides on Cane Street were disturbed by strange noises in the house, and one of the male members of the family discovered a stranger leaping out of one of the windows. The fellow made good his escape, and an examination revealed the fact that the house had been robbed of a quantity of silver plate and other valuables by burglars. The plate bears the initials of the owner. This is the third burglary within 10 days. Look well to your fastenings and keep a "barker" within reach.

The heavy rains this week announce the approach of the rainy season and the necessity of timely repairs being made to roads leading into the country districts.

Color Fills Cages

The cages of Rudy's Zoo are brimming with color with the arrival last week of a shipment of 50 parrots. More are due next week as Rudy Bauersach aims for a collection of about 200 of the brilliant birds.

His is the first zoo in Canada to receive federal permission to import the birds directly. They will serve their 14-day quarantine periods under veterinarian supervision at the zoo.

"We are very proud of the achievement," Bauersach said Friday.

It was the result of about three years exchange of paperwork between Bauersach and federal departments to get the permission to import 200 parrots.

After the quarantine period, the birds have to be kept behind glass so that they cannot come into contact with the public.

Included in the shipment will be the colorful cockatoos from Australia, a bird that is common in its native country but expensive to buy for zoo display.

Stockpiling Starts On Tunnel Project

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Stockpiling has started at the Sooke Lake end of the water district's five-mile tunnel in preparation for a massive $2,500,000 concreting job which will begin in November.

Hardrock miners have been driving from the Sooke Lake end of the tunnel and from the lower end in Japan Gulch, Goldstream, at the rate of about 50 feet a day.

However, Commissioner Ronald Upward said Friday that mining on the upper end will be stopped about Nov. 1 and two weeks later workmen will start applying concrete to the walls of the eight-foot bore.

WINTER PROGRAM

From the Goldstream end drilling will continue. At the present time, Mr. Upward said, there is about 3,250 of rock still to get through.

It is hoped that by starting in the middle of November the water district will be able to come under the provincial winter work assistance program to help defray the ever-rising cost of labor and materials.

More than 45,000 tons of aggregate will be trucked to the tunnel before the concreting job is completed. It is expected that the mining phase of the work will be completed in the spring of 1968 after which phase two, concreting, will push ahead from both ends.

LOW SUPPLY

Sooke Lake and the other reservoir lakes in the watershed are estimated to hold enough water for 500,000 people but, with the present antiquated and outworn delivery system, it is possible to tap only a quarter of the supply.

The work in phase 2 will be done over three years at a cost of about $800,000 a year, Mr. Upward said Friday. He added that there was about $1,700,000 on hand at the present time and further costs would be met by revenues.

Phase 3, the construction of a pipeline connecting the end of the tunnel with Sooke Lake proper is envisaged as a $350,000 project for 1970.

The pipeline will be five feet in diameter and built of creosoted wooden staves. It will be 3,800 feet long and laid on a graded roadbed.

Holiday Drivers On Their Own

There will be no "drive-safely-or-else" warning from B.C.'s chief law enforcement officer this Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

"I don't plan to make any statement on the subject of traffic safety over the weekend," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Friday. "Every time I or any other member of the government warn people to be careful the results seem to be worse than ever."

Sticky-Fingers Raise Tempers

No Kisses Thrown in Candy War

By NANCY BROWN

Sticky-fingered school children have angered Esquimalt's Head Street merchants who are taking action to prevent pilfering, and diminish mounds of candy and cigarette wrappers around their stores.

"We have to lock the store from 12-1 p.m., when the junior high school has its lunch hours" said Charles Low, of Super Low-Cost store on Esquimalt Road.

"I've had to hire extra help — a man for the door, and extra help in the store to watch these kids.

"After the door is locked regular customers are let in, and the school kids are let in a few at a time so we can watch them," he said.

* * *

"We have as many as 200 high school students here in the lunch hour," he added. "For the past two or three years we have had trouble, and have lost about $10 in candy and small items each school day.

"Some days we catch one or two of them.

"This new idea seems to be working," said Mr. Low.

He said the students sit outside the store eating lunch and smoking, leaving lunch wrappers and cigarette packs around.

"We have an awful mess to clear up," he complained.

The elementary school children, he observed, have to have a note if they will be out of the school grounds during the lunch hour.

"But there are no rules for the others."

He said there is a problem of shop-lifting at the store, but the mounds of litter form his biggest headache.

* * *

The Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce has written letters complaining about the problems to the high school principal, and to Esquimalt police chief Earl Sarsiat.

Rate-Setting Shift Garners Support

The suggestion that school trustees should be made directly responsible for fixing school mill rates was welcomed Friday by Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the B.C. School Trustees Association in Vancouver on Thursday, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said that while current approval powers of municipal councils over school budgets might be withdrawn, as trustees have often demanded, there would be a rider.

BELONGS WHERE?

It would mean each board would have to shoulder the responsibility for setting the local school rate, he said.

"I think this is an intelligent point of view," Mayor Stephen said. "It puts the responsibility where it belongs.

"The council sets the general rate and should take the responsibility for this. The school board should carry the onus for the cost of schools and the resultant school rate."

'DIRTY WORK'

As it was now, the mayor added, councils were obliged to accept the mill rate demanded by school boards. In the minds of many ratepayers, councils were also responsible for the total rate.

Chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, Peter Bunn, was reported Friday as saying that he thought it "fair enough" to make school trustees responsible for fixing school rates.

"If we're the responsible people, we shouldn't expect the municipality to do our dirty work," Mr. Bunn said.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I was between buses in a strange city 350 miles from home. I turned my back in the washroom and someone stole my purse. There I was without a cent to my name, no identification and no bus ticket.

I went to the man in charge of the bus station and explained my plight. He let me use his phone to call three organizations. I could get no help from any of them. Then I phoned the Salvation Army. A friendly voice said, "You are only three blocks from us. Come on over."

The only credentials they required was that I was a human being. They gave me a hot meal, a clean bed for the night and helped me contact my family. Then they gave me money and sent me on my way.

I realized for the very first time that the Salvation Army is something more than a bunch of beggars in slightly old-fashioned uniforms — "do-gooders" who pass tambourines on street corners and ring cow bells over a kettle at Christmas. They are people who care about people. I say God bless them. — GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: I say God bless them, too. Over the years I have received countless letters from readers who have related similar incidents. This lion-hearted organization deserves the support of all of us. They never turn away a needy person.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 18 years old and have never had a date. I am nice looking, have a good figure and make top grades in school, so it's not that I am dumb or ugly. When I tell you that I have been asked out dozens of times but am afraid to say yes, you will probably say I am batty.

Yesterday a very nice fellow from school asked if he could call me for a date. I snapped back, "Don't bother. I'm not interested."

Ann, I wanted to say yes so bad I almost died, but I just couldn't. I can't afford psychiatry and my mother is unreachable. Help me. — OLD MAID FOR SURE.

Dear Sure: Go back to that boy and apologize for your abruptness. Let him know you've changed your mind and you'd like to go out with him. And do it today. You recognize your problem and now is the time to face it.

Women Win Victory In India

By RAM SUNDAR

Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY — The women of India have just won a notable victory.

A 10-week agitation launched by government women employees in the northern province of Uttar Pradesh against retrenchment has ended in their triumph. The government has agreed to scrap the retrenchment plan.

Some 3,000 women were affected by the Government's proposal, which was intended to streamline the working of the social welfare department and effect economies.

The women were working on a project to bring about "awakening" among rural women, about 90 per cent of whom are illiterate, but a government committee reported that the project existed only on paper. It revealed the 3,000 women employed in it had done practically no constructive work in villages where they were supposed to operate.

Then the storm broke. Many women courted arrest by lying in front of government offices. The employees also organized "relay fasting"—one group of 50 would fast for 24 hours and then another group would take over. This went on for 51 days.

When Singh refused to budge, the women made their case an all-India issue. They enlisted the support of Acharya Kripalani, Independent MP and a former secretary-general of the Federal Congress Party, and former federal Health Minister Sushila Nayyar.

"Women are the pride of Indian society," he said. "Should we throw them on the streets in the name of an economy drive? Surely, there are other ways of streamlining the administration."

The press has generally criticized the Uttar Pradesh government's handling of the matter.

Bride's Great Aunt Travels From England for Wedding

The bride's great aunt, Mrs. E. Bentley, flew from her home in Colchester, England, especially to attend the wedding of Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Jamieson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jamieson, and Mr. Frederick James Mace, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mace, all of Victoria.

Her atendants were Miss Susan Hodgson, maid of honor, Miss Joan Davidson, bridesmaid, and Miss Melanie Epp, junior bridesmaid. They wore gowns of crystal charm in Centennial rose shade featuring floating back panels, and matching whimsies of net and crystal completed their ensembles. They carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Mr. Peter Mace was best man and ushers were Mr. Paul La Pointe, Mr. C. W. Plant, Mr. Bud Hurrell and Mr. Dave Tubman.

At a reception at Holyrood House, the wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, was cut with a Scottish dirk. Later the groom's father joined with the orchestra, playing the trumpet for a special number.

Just before leaving on honeymoon travelling in Washington the bride presented her wedding bouquet to her great aunt. For her going-away ensemble she chose a blue and white linen dress and matching check coat. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Push Button Convenience For Shoppers in Future

By JEANNE VOLTZ
The Los Angeles Times

CHICAGO — Two meetings of the newspaper food editors' conference took looks at food of the future with predictions almost as exciting as those of science fiction.

A system in which a shopper may sit in a comfortable lounge and place orders for food in a computer was demonstrated in a session this week sponsored by the Duffy Mott Co. The shopping equipment is designed by the Bell System and ready to go into production whenever a retailer considers shoppers ready for it.

The shopping gadget looks like a little box about twice the size of a conventional telephone. On the face of the box are 10 buttons which look like those on a pushbutton dial phone.

The housewife selects a card punched to the specifications of the food she wants. She drops the card in a slot atop the computer receiver, punches her assigned code number and the number of jars, cans or other units of the food she wants.

The phone the shopper dictates to is connected with a central computer. Her selections are electronically packed and delivered to her in a parking lot or whatever will take the place of a parking lot in the future.

Lee Weddig, executive director of the National Fisheries Institute, gave another picture of the future: Hopping into the family submarine and diving to the nearby "aqua-tel," an underwater hotel for dinner away from home.

Weddig pointed out that with population growing at the rate of 100,000 persons a day, "the land is going to be hard pressed to provide room for both food production and habitation. The only place to turn is the water."

Currently the world catch of seafood is about 115,000,000 pounds annually, two-thirds of this going directly for human food, but there is a tremendous potential for more food. Some scientists say current catches are only one-fortieth of the animal food that could be taken from the waters of the world.

Weddig noted that physicians and nutritionists are finding data which points to seafoods as important health foods. Seafoods are relatively low in calories, high in vitamins, minerals and proteins. Seafoods also provide large quantities of poly-unsaturated fats believed by some nutritionists to be important in controlling cardiovascular disease.

Mr. and Mrs. Renaud Honeymoon in East

Pink carnations were on the altar and baskets of chrysanthemums were placed in front of the chancel in St. Peter's Anglicar Church when Lorraine Charlotte Rice was united in marriage with Mr. John Edward Renaud.

Rev. Dr. Kenneth King officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Graham Rice, 750 Cameo Street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Renaud of Toronto, Ont.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was a picture in her wedding gown of white satin, full skirted with lace appliqué down the front. A lace covered satin panel formed the floor-length train and a flower burst headpiece held her shoulder length veil of illusion. For something old she had an heirloom gold brooch which her maternal grandmother and her mother had worn when they were brides. Pearl necklace and earrings and a bouquet of pink roses and carnations completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Alice Duncan was matron of honor, Mrs. Vivienne Rice bridesmatron and Miss Laurel Davidson was bridesmaid.

They wore floor length, sleeveless dresses of rose peau de elegance with a matching rose headpiece and carried Colonial bouquets of carnations in shades of deep pink.

Miss Glenda Rice was junior bridesmaid for her cousin and she wore a floor length dress of rose peau de elegance with bodice of lace. Her colonial bouquet was also pink carnations.

Mr. Donald Duncan was best man and ushers were Mr. Lou Burton and Mr. Rick Cappelle.

A reception followed at Holyrood House where the bride's table was decorated with pink roses and candles and centred with a three-tiered cake made by the bride's mother. Mr. Douglas Rice proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Ont., the new Mrs. Renaud wore a light wool tweed suit, fur trimmed and hat and accessories in mink shade. Her jewelry was a jade necklace and earrings, a gift from the groom and an heirloom brooch, a gift from her great grandmother, Mrs. K. Linford.

Join the crusade against ugly.

Our Pledge: We will root out every weedy, seedy, ugly spot we spot on the face of the earth and let dazzling Dutch tulips take root. We will plant tulips outside our homes; tulips inside our homes. Tulips on our front lawns; tulips on our back patios. Tulips, tulips everywhere (except where there are hyacinths or daffodils).

The straight and narrow but not very beautiful path. This is the ugliness (Fig. 1) that greeted Mrs. Rita Nord whenever she walked into her house. How sad it made her. Six months ago a neighbour told her about the Crusade against Ugly. She joined and planted Dutch tulip bulbs along her path.

Today, this (Fig. 2) is the beautiful sight Mrs. Nord sees when she walks into her house. No wonder neighbours now refer to her as "Mrs. Sunshine!"

How to plant a Dutch tulip bulb. 1. Dig a hole. 2. Drop a bulb. 3. Six months later:

Warm beautiful Story. "I was a 298 pound bully. I used to stand in my yard surrounded by dandelions and ragweed and kick sand in people's faces. Nobody liked me. Then, I joined the Crusade against Ugly. I got rid of the sand, the dandelions and the ragweed and planted Dutch tulip bulbs. Now, six months later, people come from all around to say, 'Hi, there, nice guy. Beautiful place, you've got.'"

World's most beautiful button. Only 10¢! Perfectly round, perfectly smooth, perfectly beautiful expression of your sentiments. Appropriate for formal and sports attire. Send 10¢ in stamps, coin or money order to. Crusade Against Ugly, Suite 123(A), 1253 McGill College Ave., Montreal 2, Que.

A great many of us would like to do something exciting and different. There are so many activities that fall into this category, but motorcycle trail riding is without a doubt one of the best. You may be in the position of not wanting to buy a trail bike of your own, or not wanting to go out by yourself. I have ten new 100 cc. trail bikes that I will be using for conducted trail rides, once a week. The cost will be $20 an outing for bike, gas, lunch and guide and lots of fun. All you have to supply is yourself, courage and warm clothes.

These rides will be conducted on a reservation basis only. So get your name and deposit ($5.00) in soon and let us know which ride you would like to go on. First ride is in the very near future. Come out and have a wonderful day!!

PERFECT EYES ARE RARE

Sooner or later, most eyes require correction. Of ALL HUMAN PHYSICAL CAPABILITIES, THE FUNCTION of the eye is the most easily corrected. Few people realize this, and many need glasses long before they get them. This is often true of children. Uncorrected defects in vision can mar a child's future. Why not have us make an appointment with a skilled eye specialist for your entire family? Should you require glasses, we will be happy to guide you in choosing a frame styled just for YOU.

Large selection of frames at regular and sale prices. Both high quality merchandise of fine styling. Why not bring your prescription to MAYCOCK OPTICAL, 1327 Broad St., the corner of Broad and Johnson, where you can buy single vision glasses complete for as low as $14.95.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

PEOPLE AND PROGRAMS: The Dodge Rebellion is over. Car-commercial star Pamela Austin has left for a projected TV series called Perils of Pauline, and we are seeing during the current World Series the new Dodge Fever commercials, starring Fever girl Joan Parker. We give you all the news.

Coronation Street, returning to CBUT at 1 p.m. Oct. 16 where it left off last spring, drew its highest rating in Britain in three years when Elsie Tanner got married . . . ratings show NBC's Bell Telephone Hour drew 3,000,000 more viewers in Friday prime time than in its old Sunday slot . . . question: Why didn't ABC combine Custer and Second Hundred Years into a glaciated general's story called Frozen Custer?

"They were doing the commercial when suddenly there erupted this bitter hassle about the merits of the sponsor's product."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

There is some merit in the theory of the bidding transfer—a convention which allows you to bid a suit by proxy. But we doubt the wisdom of the kind of transfer convention that North used on this deal in an International Pairs Tournament in London.

Vul: Both
NORTH (D)
♠ 6
♡ A K Q J 9 6 3
◇ K Q 10

WEST
♠ 9 7 3

◇ 8 7 6 4

EAST

◇ 9 5 2
♣ A 4

SOUTH
♠ K Q 10 5 2
◇ A J 3
♣ J 10 7 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Club king

North's opening bid of four clubs was "South-African Texas." (!) requesting South to bid four hearts. Four diamonds asks for a four spade bid. The theory is that it will generally pay to mask the responding hand by letting that hand be declarer. Furthermore, the convention makes it possible to differentiate between a weak pre-empt, which would be opened with a natural bid of four hearts, and a strong pre-empt, which is opened with a Texas bid.

The convention did not work out on this deal. After South, obedient to orders, had bid four hearts on a void, the opponents had no trouble breaking that contract. West opened the club king and East overtook with the ace, cashed the spade ace and exited with a club. West then led a third round of clubs, establishing a trump trick for East.

The defenders were helped because North's hand was on the table. At other tables, where North opened four hearts, East opened the club ace, but had no way of knowing that it was safe to cash the spade ace at the next trick. East therefore continued clubs and the defence was dead. If West returned a small club, declarer (North) could dump his losing spade. And if West returned the club king, North could ruff high, draw three rounds of trumps, enter dummy with a diamond and throw a spade on the established club.

Construction: Earthwork, Rockwork, Retaining Walls, Culverts, Etc.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed tenders, marked "Tender for Project No. T.F. 108, Horseshoe Bay Ferry Terminal, Contract No. 2," will be received by the Chairman of the British Columbia Ferry Authority in his office at the Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., up to 2:00 p.m. (Pacific Standard Time) on Tuesday the 31st day of October, 1967, and opened in public at that time and date. Contractors are eligible if at the time when the contract is entered into, the contractor was a resident of Canada or if the contractor is a corporation, it was for a period of at least one year immediately prior to that time, incorporated and carrying on business in Canada or the owners of a majority of the shares of such corporation were resident, for a period of at least one year immediately prior to incorporation, in Canada.

Plans, specifications and conditions of tender may be obtained from the Department of Highways, 773-8th Street, New Westminster, B.C., or the Douglas Building, Victoria, B.C., for the sum of Ten Dollars ($10.00), which is not refundable.

Each tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque or a bid bond in an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the tender price. This cheque or bond shall be forfeited if the tenderer declines to enter into contract. If a bid bond is used, a performance bond in the amount of one hundred per cent (100%) of the tendered sum, in a form acceptable to the minister of finance, must then be provided by the successful bidder prior to the award of the contract. If a deposit cheque is used it shall be retained and forfeited if the contractor fails to carry out the work contracted.

Tenders must be made out on the forms supplied and enclosed in the envelope furnished.

Tenders are advised that all bidders will be required to satisfy the Chairman of the British Columbia Ferry Authority, in writing, that they have the necessary qualifications to successfully perform the work. Tenderers must submit with their tenders a list stating the type, capacity and present location (so that inspection can be made if necessary) of the equipment in their possession or at their disposal which is immediately available for the carrying out of the work within the time limit specified without in any way curtailing or delaying any departmental project that may be under contract at this date.

The contractor and all his sub-contractors shall employ only residents of Canada and shall refrain from discriminating against any person by reason of his race, religion or political affiliations.

No tender will be accepted or considered which contains an escalator clause or any other qualifying conditions and the lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Secretary.

Losers Look North

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Arrangements for deportation to Yugoslavia were firmed up Friday for a young immigrant couple who have lost a five-year struggle to remain in the United States, where their two children were born.

But Gruja and Desanka Apostolovic hope to be able to take the U.S government's offer to let them instead move to any other country. They are planning on Canada—where they hope to live in Calgary.

NOT PROPER

A hitch in the plans came Friday with word that application papers for admission to Canada were not properly filled out and were being returned to Los Angeles, causing a delay.

"I'm willing to wait a week or so for the Canadians to decide," said George K. Rosenberg, chief of the Los Angeles office of the U.S. immigration and naturalization service.

"But if they tell me it's going to be six months or a year, they (the couple) will have to wait in Yugoslavia."

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

He said tentative airlines arrangements have been made for departure Oct. 19 to London, then to Belgrade.

Apostolovic, 27, a cook, and his wife, 26, moved from Belgrade in 1962 and settled in Redondo Beach on short-term visas. They liked the U.S. so well they applied for indefinite extensions but were turned down because there were no relatives here who were citizens and could sign necessary papers.

BILL DEFEATED

A bill was introduced in Congress to allow them to stay until they could apply for citizenship, but that was defeated.

On Aug. 24 they received government notice to prepare to leave, but Rosenberg's office obtained a postponement so Canadian authorities could decide.

In Calgary immigration officials Friday said they need more background information on the Yugoslavian couple.

Stuffed Stork In Court

LONDON (CP)— Beaudoin Mills, once Canadian interior decorator, had to fly to Paris just to get some wallpaper.

But what really frustrated the decorator-antique dealer was his contention that playwright Lionel Bart refused to pay a promised $3,000.

So Mills, 28, of St. Johns, Que., took Bart to court and there unfolded a story of exotic decorations, including a lavatory with a Gothic throne.

Bart, whose hits included the London shows of Oliver, Blitz and Pickwick, admitted in court Friday that he hired Mills, a West End decorator and dealer. He was to help in the purchase of furniture and interior designing in Bart's new home.

In addition to a commission on furniture purchased for the house, Mills, who arrived from Canada about 15 years ago, was to get $3,000 if he completed the interior designing in six months, Bart said.

Band, English, and Something for Heavy People

Firefighting Shrinks Enrolment

LAKE COWICHAN — Night School classes are starting and already more than 200 applications have been received, reported Mrs. Ernie Clode.

Mrs. Clode is substituting for her husband who has been ill, but he is expected to return to work next week. Mr. Clode is adult education director for the district.

Mrs. Clode said "The men's registration for various courses is very low this year, but we are expecting a large influx of registrations.

"So many of the men have been working long shifts fighting fires last month, they just haven't had time to think about registering for night school courses. These men will probably register on the night each course starts."

Keeping Trim

The class is being held in the Stanley Gordon activity room, and there is still room for more applicants.

"The course includes rhythm and relaxation, as well as help to lose a few pounds," said Mrs. Clode. "Women in the district are very enthusiastic about the course."

School Music

Two beginner classes in band from last year have joined into a 20-member adult intermediate band group this year.

Instructor is Louis Biszo. Mr. Biszo has been instrumental in forming bands on the high school level in the district.

Mrs. Clode said "Many parents have bought instruments for their youngsters to use at school, and they feel they should get some use out of the instruments, too."

Weak Start

She said she hoped another beginners' band class will be started in about two weeks, but more applicants are needed.

English for new Canadians is another popular course in the district, but it is a course which is difficult to get started.

Mrs. Clode said, "About 35 new families with some 80 children have moved into the district this year. Most of the families are East Indian.

Need Friends

"However, a newcomer to Canada cannot usually read or speak English, and they do not know this course is being offered.

"We have to rely on friends and neighbors of the new family and to the schools to bring our course to the newcomers' attention."

She said anyone knowing a new Canadian should contact the adult education director.

Backlog Met

"We took the course to the people last year," said Mrs. Clode.

"We were very successful in catching up on the backlog of new Canadians who had not been able to take the course before. This year the course is back in the high school on Thursday nights."

Logging Class

The night school program also offers courses dealing directly with the logging industry of the district.

The courses include log scaling and industrial First Aid.

Mrs. Clode said, "We also hope to offer a heavy duty mechanics course this year."

An indoor golf course is offered again this year, under the instruction of Norm Boden, of the Cowichan Golf and Country Club.

Active Part

Later in the year a family life course on adolescence and the challenge to maturity will be offered.

Mrs. Clode said this course includes lectures and discussion periods where adults can take an active part in the course.

Correspondence

Mrs. Clode said, "Each year we have many inquiries about correspondence sources, and this demand is being met in the district.

"We provide classrooms for study and library privileges.

New Math

Mrs. Clode stated "We encourage people to complete their high school education or vocational Grade 10 to enable them to go on to higher education institutes.

"We have had refresher courses for teachers in language arts and New Math, and this year we will probably offer refesher course on the elementary science for teachers."

She said for the past two years a course entitled understanding the new math has been offered to parents in the district.

"This year there have been few applications for the course," she said. "We feel we have met the present demand for the course, but it will probably be offered again in a year or two as the younger children start school," she said.

The adult education program has a few problems this year, mainly in obtaining instructors for some courses.

"We need a typing instructor," said Mrs. Clode. "We would be very happy to hear from any qualified person who would be interested in teaching the subject.

"We would also like someone to teach other commercial courses including general bookkeeping."

Chinese Food

Another very popular course may not be offered this year because there is no instructor.

"The Chinese Cooking class is always full," said Mrs. Clode.

Clark

First section of new junior high school in Wellington rises section by section. Each section weighs 14 tons. Largest truck crane on Island is being used to put school together piece by giant piece. Job is going ahead on a 7½ hour basis, despite classroom shortage, because of Premier Bennett's overtime ban. One man who looks on the whole process in more sombre mood is Jim Clark, business agent for Local 527, Carpenters Brotherhood, who sees only five carpenters on the big job. Block style construction sharply cuts number of carpenters needed.—(Agnes Flett)

Wellington Building

Radical School Goes Up

NANAIMO — A search for a better way of doing things has resulted in the design of Wellington Junior High School, now being built.

The building will have a pentagon centre with arms extending from each of its faces.

A spokesman for school board said the department of education is watching this construction closely, because it could be the forerunner of similar constructions in the future.

Toronto is using the same prefabrication techniques, and California has 11 schools which were built in the same manner.

The process is referred to as SCSD, Standard Construction Systems Development.

The two arms will cost $672,000, and the completed school with all five arms and the centre unit will approach two and a half times this figure.

The additional arms will house the cafeteria-administration, another classroom wing and a gymnasium.

RCMP Search in Vain, Ship's Crewman Missing

CAMPBELL RIVER — A 44-year-old American sailor, who fell overboard while the freighter Duncan Bay was docking Thursday at Elk River's pulp jetty, had still not been found Friday night.

The Campbell River RCMP boat PB Massett, a 56-foot cutter, searched continuously for 40 hours, returning shortly before midnight Friday night after riding out high seas, a high tide and 30-knot winds during the latter part of the search.

The sailor, whose name is being withheld until relatives in California have been notified, is presumed drowned.

Road Crews' Blasting Severs Tofino Power

TOFINO — The village was left without power from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Friday after road crews blasted down power lines about 40 miles away, in a similar incident which started the ravaging 9,000-acre Sproat Lake fire in August.

Paradoxically, the area which was tinder dry a few weeks ago is now under the threat of flooding streams and swollen rivers.

★ ★ ★

The Alberni-Tofino Highway was cut in places throughout Friday by heavy rain, and officials announced late Friday night the highway would be closed for an indefinite period.

The work, which has been proceeding for almost two years and is expected to last another one, will enable narrow stretches of the highway to be widened considerably.

A B.C. Hydro official in Port Alberni said Friday night that a small, emergency generator was brought into operation at the Tofino Airport, but this was not large enough to supply the whole village.

As a result, residents ate a cold supper.

He added it would be inefficient to have a large generator on hand for emergencies, "There'd be an awful lot of power doing nothing . . . besides, it would be an expensive proposition."

The spokesman said he did not envy road works crews in the area, because the rock is close in to power lines, making blasting work extremely difficult.

The Kennedy River was under flood late Friday night and the Taylor River had swollen banks. Many creeks in the west coast area are blocked by logging slash being carried downstream.

Freight Cars Jump Track

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The Canadian National Railways main line was blocked when six cars of a westbound freight train carrying potash jumped the track near Blue River, 100 miles northeast of here. There was no report of injuries in the mishap. The cars, part of a 67-car train, remained upright.

Baby Sick Too

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A woman fighting to get permission to hook up to the city's water supply said Friday her husband and one-year-old daughter have fallen ill because of contaminated water.

Mrs. Ian Watson said in an interview her husband still is convalescing in Edmonton following a two-month staph infection and her daughter Wendy has a fever and mysterious rash.

FIVE TYPES

The Watsons were refused permission by city council to hook up to the city supply because they live just outside the city limits. They said the well on their land is contaminated with five types of bacteria.

The Watsons said Thursday the Public Utilities Commission has reopened its investigation of the case and that an investigator made inquiries in Prince George this week.

WATER BLAMED

She said her 14-year-old son Rodney is the only member of the family who has not suffered from use of the water because he "refused right from the start to drink or wash in the foul-tasting stuff."

Pollution Control Pushed

SEATTLE (AP)—A three-man federal-state enforcement conference recommended Friday full implementation of a controversial federal report requiring polution control equipment on Puget Sound pulp and paper mills within five years.

The conference also recommended sewage facilities for the cities of Bellingham, Port Angeles and Everett.

The recommendations affect eight pulp and paper mills in Bellingham, Anacortes, Everett and Port Angeles.

The recommendations adopted Friday were nearly identical to those recommended by a four-year $1,500,000 study.

'I Did Not Kill My Wife'

Husband Again Sentenced to Hang

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani told the B.C. Supreme Court jury that found him guilty of capital murder Friday that he was not responsible for the arsenic murder of his wife.

"I have been asked three or four times if I was guilty of killing my wife. I did not kill my wife."

★ ★ ★

He then turned his head to look at the jury and said: "May God have mercy on your souls."

He was then sentenced to be hanged Jan. 23 by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer.

It was the second time Castellani had been found guilty of the capital murder of his wife, Esther, 40, who died in hospital of arsenic poisoning July 11, 1965.

He was granted a new trial after successfully appealing the first conviction.

Defence lawyer Charles Maclean said the second conviction will also be appealed.

Tests showed parts of her body contained up to 1,500 times the normal human tolerance. Castellani was arrested and charged.

★ ★ ★

In his summation to the jury, Maclean said: "If we're going to hang men for adultery, there aren't enough lamp posts in Vancouver to accommodate them."

Funeral symbolizes death of hippies in San Francisco

Hippies End Own Era, Invent Free New Life

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hundreds of flower children paraded through the mecca of the long-haired set Friday proclaiming "the death of the hippie." The marchers said they were purging evil to make men free.

The funeral procession included a 22-foot long black casket, a 15-foot cross, huge white flags, small symbolic painted signs, a few flowers and a variety of musical instruments.

A few brought their children along for the parade through the Haight-Ashbury district and nearby Golden Gate Park panhandle where love-ins, feed ins and various types of "ins" have been staged in recent months.

"The hippie is dead; now we are free," chanted some of the demonstrators waving sticks of incense and small American flags. Others chanted a Hindu prayer, Hare Krishna.

★ ★ ★

A hippie posing as a corpse was borne on a stretcher near the casket.

The significance of using the casket as a dumping grounds was explained by bearded George Darling, a hippie elder, wearing sandals, shorts and carrying the 15-foot cross.

"It's to get rid of our affectations," he said solemnly. "If beads are not you, put them in. If drugs are not you, put them in . . . the purpose of this community is to be yourself."

★ ★ ★

Darling, one of the operators of the hippies' communications centre known as switchboard, said "We are hoping the disillusioned who have moved out will come back."

The parade ended in the park panhandle after a 90-minute march through the district where a banner across Haight Street read Death of hippie. Freebie, birth of the free American.

The casket was set afire as hippies danced around it. Firemen arrived a few minutes later to spray the embers with water.

Only Head Remains In Sizzling Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tall, slender young man walked into a San Francisco foundry and stepped into a vat of molten iron.

The vat contained iron ore heated to 2,600 degrees and only his head was found. The coroner hopes to make identification from it.

Witnesses said the molten iron exploded when the man went into the vat Thursday, sending red-hot metal spraying 30 feet.

Police said they learned the man had tried to take his life earlier by jumping into a truck filled with liquid concrete.

William Nicolini, a telephone company supervisor, told police he pulled the man out but was told: "Leave me alone—I'm trying to make an impression."

Minutes later the man, about 28, walked into the foundry.

In St. Laurent Government

★ ★ ★

Campney had returned to his law firm after he lost his Vancouver Centre seat to the Conservatives in the 1957 federal election.

He was first elected to the Commons in 1949 and served as solicitor-general before being named defence minister in 1954.

But he was careful not to become too deeply involved in politics.

"Politics is a jealous mistress," he once remarked. "If you are not careful, it will take up more of your time than you bargained for."

★ ★ ★

He is survived by his wife, Mary, and a son, Alan F. Campney. His first wife, Vera, died in 1961.

"I learned with great regret of the death of my old friend and colleague Ralph Campney.

"We had served together in the House of Commons from 1949 to 1957 and had been cabinet colleagues from 1952 to 1957.

"My wife and I have sent our personal condolences to Mrs. Campney and the family.

"Canada has lost an outstanding citizen."

Jakarta Planning Break with Peking

"We will move toward a stop in diplomatic relations," he told a group of anti-Communist students. "The government will take measures but it needs time to make preparations."

The students Friday delivered an ultimatum to the government, warning that if it did not break relations by Monday morning they would seize the Chinese embassy in Jakarta and oust the Chinese diplomats.

Stop Raids, Start Talks

India Claims Inside Word

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—India said Friday it has inside information that North Vietnam would talk peace if the United States would stop the bombs.

American officials remained unimpressed. They said privately they detected no new element in the Indian statement, made in the UN General Assembly by Defence Minister Sardar Swaran Singh.

Singh said India's firm belief that fighting would stop throughout Vietnam and a "Geneva-type" peace conference follow, if the U.S. called off the raids, is "based on our talks with the various parties concerned."

He appeared to be answering U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's Sept. 21 assembly statement that no third party had "conveyed to us any authoritative message from Hanoi that there would in fact be negotiations if the bombing were stopped."

★ ★ ★

Singh's statement was the most categorical yet in the assembly on the results of an end to the air raids, called for by several previous speakers, including Canada's External Affairs Minister Martin.

Diplomats attached considerable importance to Singh's statement because India is chairman of the International Control Commissions in Vietnam and Laos, which was created by the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences. Canada and Poland are the other commission members. India also has top-level representation in the key capitals involved, including Hanoi.

Singh stressed that he was not speaking out of "wishful thinking," but "with confidence and belief based on our talks with the various parties concerned with the conflict."

New Job

Birthday Task Over

VANCOUVER (CP) — Centennial Commissioner John Fisher confirmed Friday he had resigned his federal post and has accepted a new job as publisher and managing director of Northwest Publications Ltd., a B.C. firm.

"I felt my job was pretty much completed," Fisher said in an interview. "After all, we're over the hump so far as the centennial is concerned, and I think it has sufficient momentum to carry on without my services."

Asked about reports he had encountered difficulties with State Secretary Judy LaMarsh and her predecessor, Senator Maurice Lamontangne, Fisher said:

"I never circulated any such reports. The job was an interesting challenge. I feel it's pretty well completed."

Teacher 'Trust' Absent

By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — "A deplorable lack of mutual trust and co-operation" between school trustees and teachers was attacked Friday by Robert Buzza, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Buzza made his criticism before the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. He went on to chide trustees for a resolution aimed at barring teachers from school boards anywhere in B.C (See also Page 12.)

NOT CONSIDERED

Despite his remarks, trustees later in the day refused to reconsider the resolution, passed Thursday. It asks the government to legislate against teachers holding seats on school boards.

At present, a teacher can sit on a board other than the one in the district where he teaches. There are five such teacher trustees in B.C.

'FEAR US'

"Many of you appear to fear us and to want to work against us rather than with us. Even to the point of attempting to deprive us of our rights as citizens," said Buzza.

"Teachers have served and are serving as councillors and mayors and reeves and MLAs and MPs and cabinet ministers and premiers and prime ministers.

NO OPPORTUNITY

"But trustees have now decided in their wisdom that the public should not have even the opportunity of deciding whether or not a responsible man or woman who happens to be a teacher should be elected as a trustee," he remarked.

The motion to reconsider was made by Burnaby trustee R. J. Bowman.

"I have the inevitiable feeling that many people in this province are laughing up their sleeve at us," said Bowman.

But debate was restricted to procedural matters and the actual issue did not come up for discussion a second time.

Grit Fiscal Policy

'Like Runaway Hearse'

Finance Minister Sharp was compared with all of them, unfavorably, in a Commons speech Friday by Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon).

Besides blistering the finance minister in particular, Nielsen scorched the entire Liberal government for wasteful spending. He accused it of favoring big corporations at the expense of the small taxpayer.

'BIG SPENDERS'

"Never since the Klondike gold rush . . . has their been such an agglomeration of big spenders," the sharp-tongued MP said as the Commons continued debating Sharp's budget presented last June.

Sharp was standing in the midst of "fiscal wreckage" brought on by "the most spendthrift government in our history."

Nielsen said Sharp promised in his budget speech four months ago to tackle inflation. But now that debate had resumed after the summer recess, he had been forced to admit his failure to control the situation.

'UP THE HILL'

Because Sharp's cabinet colleagues refused to curtail their spending, the minister was trapped "like a passenger in a runaway hearse . . . heading for a precipice in the economic affairs of this country."

He was like the Duke of York in the poem that told of his marching men up the hill only to march them back down again. He talked of cutting back government expenditures but his colleagues went right on spending.

Nielsen

In the "field of empire-building" Sharp and the government make "Alexander the Great and Napoleon look like the Smothers brothers," Nielsen said.

Sharp was like a mouse in a cage full of lions, instead of a real lion-tamer. In fact, if he were to make a real attempt at curbing spending, he would have to be "a fiscal Clyde Beatty."

OWN SPENDING

Sharp's predicted $740,000,000 budget deficit of last June was on the way to growing to about $1,000,000,000, Nielsen said. Though such advisory bodies as the Economic Council of Canada had called for reduced government spending, all Sharp could do was say that he was trying to trim spending for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Sharp's own department is spending $250,000,000 more this year than last, the Conservative MP said.

The planned performing arts centre in Ottawa had started out with a price tag of $10,000,000 and costs now had soared to $40,000,000.

The publicly-owned CBC had become "a byword for uncontrolled expenditure." The Commons no longer held control over its spending and there was "so much fat surrounding the bone that you can't even see to cut."

Nanaimo Students Smack Lips

Food, Glorious Food Sweeps Prize for Taste

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — This year's culinary arts class, according to Chief Instructor John Bateman, is at the same level as last year's class at the same time.

That could be one of the best compliments he could pay any group of students, because last year's class won every culinary competition it entered.

Visually, foods on display Thursday night were magnificent.

Gastrononomically, they were even better.

It was a fitting tribute to Culinary Arts Week.

With white uniforms, Mr. Bateman and his class of 25, including five women stood by and watched students and invited guests file past the tables in the VTS dining room.

With a little bit of this and a smidgin of that, soon plates were loaded to capacity with rare and delicate treats.

First to assail the senses was a baron of beef, followed by a large baked ham.

Along the line of tables that extended down one wall, around a corner, and down another, were foods both plain and fancy.

Future chefs ladled out gravies, cut chicken and turkeys, or placed a frog's leg on the plates.

Some of the foods were decorated to represent some little scene, such as a group of chickens decorated to represent a Hawaiian village.

The chief chicken was labeled Mr. Bateman.

They must have been cannibals, because one of their number was skewered, and placed over a small fire or red colored paper.

Nearby was a grass hut, with slices of pineapple for thatches.

The horn was indeed of plenty, with fruit bursting from the horn's mouth and onto the table in profusion.

Next to the horn were two Alaska King Crabs, with dishes beneath.

The culinary arts motto Mente et Manu (by hand and by mind) was in evidence in at least two places:

Beneath the large tallow centennial maple leaves, each triangle of which had the provinces' emblems, was the Canadian code of arms.

Canada came in the picture again in a beautiful map, made of champagne aspic into which were placed peas, corn, shredded red cabbage, dice carrots and turnips, to give color to the provinces and territories.

Canada was so prominent because the class had prepared the decorations for the Centennial Arts Ball, which had been scheduled for Sept. 29, but was cancelled at the last moment.

Where the two tables met there was a suckling pig, which had been boned, stuffed and roasted.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Bateman said each of the students must try his hand at the ice and tallow work, and after that may make up his mind if he wishes to do more.

Two were hired by CPR by long - distance telephone call from Calgary, and were sent to Regina.

Others are now working in the Empress Hotel, the Bayshore, and Arrow Caterers in Vancouver.

There is always KP.

Mr. Bateman admitted to running a strict kitchen, where tardiness or sloppiness is rewarded by a stint at cleaning garbage cans, or cleaning the kitchen, for several days if necessary.

The fairness of his discipline is evidenced by the fact that the students clamor for this attention, and treat him as a respected member of their group.

Motorcycle Scramble Run for Old Folks

PORT ALBERNI — With a roar, a swoop and a breath-taking burst of speed, the boys in crash helmets are going to do their bit this weekend to brighten the lives of the Alberni Valley's old folks.

Members of the motorcycle Club have arranged scrambles Sunday, and the proceeds will go to the Senior Citizens Christmas Fund, sponsored by the radio station, CJAV.

Riders from Alberta, northern Washington and Oregon are expected to join B.C. riders for the event, which has the sanction of the Canadian Motorcycle Association.

Practice time is 10 a.m., with official opening at 12:30 and the race starting at 1 p.m.

Admission is $1.00 for adults, and the events will take place on club grounds at the end of Saunders Road, off the Beaver Creek highway.

The club throughout the year has made several contributions to community life, acting as parade marshals and often taking on the chore of covering rural areas during charitable campaigns in the valley, as well as helping to raise funds for the special Christmas treat for elderly citizens.

NANAIMO — September was a near record month for shipping, with 27 freighters calling in for cargo.

□

Finance Minister Due for 'Stinkers'

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Some of the more unpalatable tax dishes from the Carter Commission on Taxation were served up to members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at a lunchtime panel discussion in Victoria Friday.

Two Vancouver experts, lawyer Derek Parkinson and accountant Jock Barbeau, gave more than 100 Victoria business people an insight as to what would happen to their lives if the whole of the Carter recommendations were accepted.

At some stages, their explanations were met with groans and other expressions of dismay.

"It will breed an entirely new race of taxation bureaucrats to make it workable," was the comment of one chamber member at the conclusion of the two-hour discussion.

"Surely the government won't fall for all this," exclaimed another.

GRAVE DANGER

But as the very erudite panelists pointed out there is indeed grave danger of this happening if members of the public do not express their views, as they have been invited to do by Finance Minister Sharp.

Mr. Parkinson implored his hearers to do this, adding that the time of submission to the minister had extended from Sept. 30 to Oct. 31.

WRITE YOURSELF

"If you are not a member of an organization making its representations, you should write to Mr. Sharp yourself if you feel you have anything to contribute," he said.

In rising to thank the panelists, former chamber president Courtney Haddock said he hoped the Victoria chamber would follow the example of the Vancouver Board of Trade in making a submission to Mr. Sharp, before the end of the month deadline.

● "The comprehensive tax base includes all net gains in purchasing power including capital gains, windfalls, bequests and other forms of real income that are now tax exempt."

● "The greatest benefits from Carter would be to the class with annual income between $30,000 and $45,000."

● "Capital gains tax would be imposed only on realized gains, or gains deemed to be dispositioned."

● "There would be no succession tax or gift tax as such, but all bequests or gifts going outside the family unit would be taxed at the full 50-per-cent rate with capital treated as income."

● "All assets would have to be valued — a tremendous task."

● "Persons leaving the family unit (to set up family units of their own, for instance) would be taxed on the value of guns, furniture or any property or money withdrawn subject to an exemption up to $5,000."

● "No tax would be payable on transfers within the family units, such as the passing of property from husband to widow, but would be subject to tax and capital gain when the family unit is disbanded (on the death of the widow)."

● "Payment of tax on capital gains, or windfalls could be averaged over a period of up to five years, or it could be placed in a government operated adjustment account, on which no interest would be payable, but on which tax would be payable only as withdrawn."

Quite clearly the panelists did not sell the Carter report to the Victoria Chamber membership.

Loffmark Gets Deputy

The $19,000-a-year post of deputy minister of trade and industry in B.C. was filled Friday exactly one year and one week after it was vacated.

The appointment of Robert Renwick, 50, of Vancouver, was announced by Trade Minister Loffmark. He succeeds Thomas Surgess who retired last year.

Mr. Renwick is regional manager of the federal department of trade and commerce on Canada's west coast and has specialized in exports markets in the Orient.

REASON FOR DELAY

Mr. Loffmark said the past year has meant "backbreaking" labors for himself as minister without a deputy. There was an advantage, however, because it mean familiarizing himself with all aspects of the department's operation, he said.

The reason for the delay in making the appointment, the minister said, was difficulty in reconciling the separate data processing and trade promotion aspects of the department.

Mr. Renwick's detailed career listings show no reference to experience in data processing. He was born in Ottawa, graduated from McGill in 1948 with a bachelor of commerce degree and honors in economics.

He has served the federal department of trade ad commerce in Ottawa, Bombay, Tokyo, Chicago and Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. He is also western representative of the Exports Credit Insurance Corporation.

All Spring

Federal Wallet Busy

OTTAWA (CP)—How would you like to have $5 to blow for every $3 you now spend?

Well, the governments are doing it for you.

Government spending rose 7.5 per cent in April, May and June this year over their outlays in January, February and March. And it isn't just a case of springtime activities starting up after the long, hard winter.

National accounts figures released this week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed that expenditures by all levels of government in the second quarter of the year totalled $5,111,000,000, compared with $4,793,000,000 in the first quarter.

SPENDING COMPARED

Adjusting the figures to take into account seasonal variations, and projecting them onto an annual rate basis, DBS reported that government spending in April, May and June was running at $21,252,000,000 a year, compared with $19,728,000,000 in the first quarter.

The $21,252,000,000 compares with personal expenditures on consumer goods and services amounting to $37,288,000,000.

In other words, federal, provincial and municipal governments spend almost $2 for every $3 spent by individuals on consumer goods and services.

The increase in federal spending was attributed to both defence and non-defence items. Higher salaries and wages, and increased outlays for municipal public works, predominated in the spending pattern of the other levels of government.

Tough Test for Big Cheese In High-Class Derby Field

By JIM TANG

Weather is playing havoc with what started out to be a record-breaking season at Sandown Park, but few horse-racing fans are likely to miss today's runnings of the Sandown Derby.

It is split into two divisions because 16 horses, comprising what is probably the best group of three-year-olds ever stabled at Sandown, passed the entry wicket yesterday morning. And to make it all the more interesting, the luck of the draw grouped six of the most likely into the second division.

That one includes Big Cheese, not likely to be more than a mild favorite after drawing the toughest-possible opposition and the top weight of 125 pounds.

Pitted against the Calgary-owned chestnut gelding are most of those who look as if they can handle the derby distance of a mile and one-sixteenth—Handsome Chief, Golden Wine, Glencar, War Treasure, Oratress, Chief Malarkey and Short Circuit.

Never Charge, Betty's Pride and Easel's Pride, best of the three-year-old sprinters, are all in the first division and set up another interesting race with In Solid, Uncle Roddy and Rotated likely to get most of the mutuel play because they have shown an ability to handle a route.

They will be running for a purse of $1,500 added in each division. The added in each case will come to $290 after 18 owners paid the $10 nominating fee and 16 elected to fork up the $25 extra to pass the entry wicket.

FRIDAY CROWD LIGHT

Yesterday brought the smallest crowd and the smallest mutuel handle in the 12 days of the meeting as a steady drizzle had its dampening effect on enthusiasm, too.

It was the fifth straight day of sloppy tracks after seven days of exceptional weather, and the effect is shown in mutuel totals.

Play was up each of the first seven days for a total increase of about $83,000 over last year's corresponding total. It has been down four of the five wet days for a loss of almost $18,000.

TWO FAVORITES WIN

Despite the slop, racing was on the formful side. Only two betting favorites got down in front but the biggest win payoff came in the five-horse feature race, Easy Joe returning $13.20 by just lasting to neck out favored Swan Lady.

Sandy Shields, leading rider on the Prairies this season with 78 winners, passed Joe Baze, who won 82 at Exhibition Park and then headed for greener (?) climes in the East.

Shields scored his fourth and fifth victories at Sandown to make it 83 for the season, but he is going to have to step up his production if he is to hold off Basil Frazier.

Cards Still Favorites As Briles Faces Bell

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The favored St. Louis Cardinals today will match young Nelson Briles, a bullpen graduate with nine straight wins, against Boston's Gary Bell, a veteran of 10 big league seasons, in the third game of a World Series that is all even after the first two.

A soft rain dripped down on both the Cardinals and the Red Sox Friday as they limbered up at Busch Stadium on the off day in the schedule.

Today's third game of the Series will be televised starting at 11 a.m. Victoria time on channels 2, 5 and 6 and will also be broadcast on radio over stations CBU (690) and KING (1090).

The weatherman forecast a possibility of showers for the weekend games. However, it would take real heavy weather before any games would be called off, especially on a big television weekend.

CARDS UNCHANGED

Red Schoendienst, manager of the Cardinals, plans no changes in his lineup that banged out 10 hits in the opener but was held to one double by Jim Lonborg's pitching in the second game. Schoendienst hopes a return to familiar surrounding in the 49,450-capacity park will act as a tonic for the Cards' .177 team batting average.

Orlando Cepeda's failure to hit safely in the first two games has been an anchor around the neck of the Cards' attack. The Baby Bull from Puerto Rico, who batted .325 and led the National League with 111 runs batted in, hasn't hit in seven at-bats.

Briles

Bell

Tim McCarver also is hitless in six at bats and Curt Flood and Roger Maris each has only one hit. Lou Brock's four hits in the opener and .500 average make him far and away the leader.

Boston thinks its sluggers woke up Thursday with those two booming homers by Carl Yastrzemski, the slugger who carried the Sox on his shoulders all season. George Scott at .429, Yaz at .375 and Dalton Jones at .333 are the big men in Boston's lineup, which averages .234.

Manager Dick Williams plans to continue with the same batting order that won Thursday. That means Jose Tartabull again will be in right field in place of Ken Harrelson and Elston Howard will catch for Russ Gibson.

Williams has his pitching all set up through Monday, having proclaimed that Lonborg will wrap it up Monday. Jose Santiago, opening loser, will work Sunday.

GIBSON TO FOLLOW

The Cards are expected to follow Briles with Bob Gibson in Sunday's game in order to get a maximum of three starts with three days' rest each time for Gibson if the series goes seven games.

Schoendienst talks of Gibson or young Steve Carlton Sunday but everybody expects him to go to Gibson, who struck out 10 Red Sox and won the opener, 2-1. Carlton, a tall lefty, will pitch the Monday game if Gibson goes Sunday.

Briles is the young man, 24, who marched out of the Cardinal bullpen to take over a regular starting job after Bob Gibson suffered a broken right leg in mid-July. As a relief man, Briles was 4-3, as a starter 10-2, for a season total of 14-5. He has won nine in a row with a couple of no decisions mixed in.

Bell, 30, is a product of the Cleveland Indians' organization. The Red Sox acquired him June 4 in a trade. He was 1-5 at Cleveland but became a 12-8 winner at Boston for a 13-13 season.

O'Keefes Are Hosts

Columbus Carlings Make Debut Sunday

Columbus Carlings have a knack for being controversial at the best of times and they seem set to start their Pacific Coast Soccer League season off in that vein.

Starting at inside right for the visitors when they meet Victoria O'Keefes at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday will be Peter Simpson.

Simpson tried his luck in the National Professional Soccer League last season. The NPSL was branded as an outlaw league by the world governing body, FIFA.

NO ACTION YET

Mainardi's claim is based on the fact that the governing Canadian body has not made any statements to forbid players from re-entering the association and the B.C. Commission has had to go along with Simpson's eligibility.

Columbus has the same last line of defence as last season with Peter Ahrend in goal, Dan Konduzzi and Sam Lennarduzzi as fullbacks and Jean Vazzoler at centre half but they have a slightly new look on attack.

O'KEEFES STAND PAT

Barry Sadler is in goal with Dave Stothard and Don McIntosh as fullbacks, George Paul, Bill Hamilton and Tom Westwater on the half line with Marty Taylor, Peter Brett, Ike MacKay, Bert Soutar and Peter Wilson as forwards.

Jim Menzies is still troubled with his leg injury and will not dress for the game, while Russ Ball, Dunc McCaig, Ray Telford and Brian Robinson will be available to manager Frank Grealy.

Sunday's match, which starts at 2 p.m., marks the third consecutive weekend that Victoria has played host to a team making its debut in the young season.

Monarchs Bow

Meyers, Rudyk Pace All Stars

Larry Meyers and Bill Rudyk each scored twice Friday to lead the All Stars to a 7-2 victory over Esquimalt Tudor Monarchs in the annual pre-season Vancouver Island Hockey League game at the Sports Centre.

Tempers Flare In NHL

Tempers are short on the NHL exhibition circuit.

Ken Hodge and Phil Esposito scored for Boston Bruins and Yvan Cournoyer for Montreal Canadiens as Bruins edged the Habs, 2-1, Friday night at Boston but the scoring was incidental.

Officials called 34 penalties, including nine for fighting, two misconducts and one game misconduct.

CHIEF ANTAGONISTS

Defenceman Ted Harris of Montreal and Bobby Orr of Boston were chief antagonists, staging one donnybrook of their own and each also getting mixed up in another fracas.

And the game produced injuries. Terry Harper of Montreal suffered a concussion and either a fractured or separated left shoulder when he was slammed into the boards. Boston's Ross Lonsberry suffered a cut left little finger which required 11 stitched and Orr injured a hand in his second fight and had to leave the game.

At Quebec, the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League and Philadelphia Flyers of the NHL planned two practice games Friday but managers agreed to call off the second game after several fights broke out in the opener.

Band, English, and Something for Heavy People

Firefighting Shrinks Night Enrolment

LAKE COWICHAN — Night School classes are starting and already more than 200 applications have been received, reported Mrs. Ernie Clode.

Mrs. Clode is substituting for her husband who has been ill, but he is expected to return to work next week. Mr. Clode is adult education director for the district.

Mrs. Clode said "The men's registration for various courses is very low this year, but we are expecting a large influx of registrations.

"So many of the men have been working long shifts fighting fires last month, they just haven't had time to think about registering for night school courses. These men will probably register on the night each course starts."

Keeping Trim

The class is being held in the Stanley Gordon activity room, and there is still room for more applicants.

"The course includes rhythm and relaxation, as well as help to lose a few pounds," said Mrs. Clode. "Women in the district are very enthusiastic about the course."

School Music

Two beginner classes in band from last year have joined into a 20-member adult intermediate band group this year.

Instructor is Louis Biszo. Mr. Biszo has been instrumental in forming bands on the high school level in the district.

Mrs. Close said "Many parents have bought instruments for their youngsters to use at school, and they feel they should get some use out of the instruments, too."

Weak Start

She said she hoped another beginners' band class will be started in about two weeks, but more applicants are needed.

English for new Canadians is another popular course in the district, but it is a course which is difficult to get started.

Mrs. Clode said, "About 35 new families with some 80 children have moved into the district this year. Most of the families are East Indian.

Need Friends

"However, a newcomer to Canada cannot usually read or speak English, and they do not know this course is being offered.

"We have to rely on friends and neighbors of the new family and to the schools to bring our course to the newcomers' attention."

She said anyone knowing a new Canadian should contact the adult education director.

Backlog Met

"We took the course to the people last year," said Mrs. Clode.

"We were very successful in catching up on the backlog of new Canadians who had not been able to take the course before. This year the course is back in the high school on Thursday nights."

Logging Class

The night school program also offers courses dealing directly with the logging industry of the district.

The courses include log scaling and industrial First Aid.

Mrs. Clode said, "We also hope to offer a heavy duty mechanics course this year."

An indoor golf course is offered again this year, under the instruction of Norm Boden, of the Cowichan Golf and Country Club.

Active Part

Later in the year a family life course on adolescence and the challenge to maturity will be offered.

Mrs. Clode said this course includes lectures and discussion periods where adults can take an active part in the course.

Correspondence

Mrs. Clode said, "Each year we have many inquiries about correspondence cources, and this demand is being met in the district.

"We provide classrooms for study and library privileges.

New Math

Mrs. Clode stated "We encourage people to complete their high school education or vocational Grade 10 to enable them to go on to higher education institutes.

"We have had refresher courses for teachers in language arts and New Math, and this year we will probably offer refesher course on the elementary science for teachers."

She said for the past two years a course entitled understanding the new math has been offered to parents in the district.

"This year there have been few applications for the course," she said. "We feel we have met the present demand for the course, but it will probably be offered again in a year or two as the younger children start school," she said.

The adult education program has a few problems this year, mainly in obtaining instructors for some courses.

"We need a typing instructor," said Mrs. Clode. "We would be very happy to hear from any qualified person who would be interested in teaching the subject.

"We would also like someone to teach other commercial courses including general bookkeeping."

Chinese Food

Another very popular course may not be offered this year because there is no instructor.

"The Chinese Cooking class is always full," said Mrs. Clode.

"Registration is limited in this course, and last year we offered two classes."

She said last year's instructor has unfortunately moved out of the district, and no one has been found to take the instructor's place.

Mrs. Clode said, "On the whole, this year's adult education program is coming along very well.

"We try to meet the needs of the community. When any new idea is brought to our attention we are always willing to investigate it and try out the idea if it is at all feasible."

Clark

First section of new junior high school in Wellington rises section by section. Each section weighs 14 tons. Largest truck crane on Island is being used to put school together piece by giant piece. Job is going ahead on a 7½ hour basis, despite classroom shortage, because of Premier Bennett's overtime ban. One man who looks on the whole process in more sombre mood is Jim Clark, business agent for Local 527, Carpenters Brotherhood, who sees only five carpenters on the big job. Block style construction sharply cuts number of carpenters needed.—(Agnes Flett)

Wellington Building

Radical School Goes Up

NANAIMO — A search for a better way of doing things has resulted in the design of Wellington Junior High School, now being built.

The building will have a pentagon centre with arms extending from each of its faces.

A spokesman for school board said the department of education is watching this construction closely, because it could be the forerunner of similar constructions in the future.

Toronto is using the same prefabrication techniques, and California has 11 schools which were built in the same manner.

* * *

The process is referred to as SCSD, Standard Construction Systems Development.

The two arms will cost $672,000, and the completed school with all five arms and the centre unit will approach two and a half times this figure.

The additional arms will house the cafeteria-administration, another classroom wing and a gymnasium.

Kitty's Food Is Safe But Watch Candies!

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — It itches and I can't help laughing.

Friday I wanted to buy flea powder for a Siamese cat and her five newly-born kittens.

Logic said I would be able to buy the powder in the pet shop but the lady proprietor told me otherwise.

Because the pet shop carries pet food as well, and she cannot provide a safe distance between the items, the government inspector forbids her to sell flea powder.

At the drug store which also carries chocolates, the powder was readily available, and our cats are happy.

Road Crews' Blasting Severs Tofino Power

TOFINO — The village was left without power from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Friday after road crews blasted down power lines about 40 miles away, in a similar incident which started the ravaging 9,000-acre Sproat Lake fire in August.

Paradoxically, the area which was tinder dry a few weeks ago is now under the threat of flooding streams and swollen rivers.

* * *

The Alberni-Tofino Highway was cut in places throughout Friday by heavy rain, and officials announced late Friday night the highway would be closed for an indefinite period.

* * *

The which has been proceeding for almost two years and is expected to last another one, will enable narrow stretches of the highway to be widened considerably.

A B.C. Hydro official in Port Alberni said Friday night that a small, emergency generator was brought into operation at the Tofino Airport, but this was not large enough to supply the whole village.

As a result, residents ate a cold supper.

* * *

He added it would be inefficient to have a large generator on hand for emergencies. "There'd be an awful lot of power doing nothing . . . besides, it would be an expensive proposition."

The spokesman said he did not envy road works crews in the area, because the rock is close in to power lines, making blasting work extremely difficult.

* * *

The Kennedy River was under flood late Friday night and the Taylor River had swollen banks. Many creeks in the west coast area are blocked by logging slash being carried downstream.

RCMP Boat Search In Vain, Crewman Presumed Drowned

CAMPBELL RIVER — A 44-year-old American sailor, who fell overboard while the freighter Duncan Bay was docking Thursday at Elk River's pulp jetty, had still not been found Friday night.

The Campbell River RCMP boat PB Massett, a 56-foot cutter, searched continuously for 40 hours, returning shortly before midnight Friday night after riding out high seas, a high tide and 30-knot winds during the latter part of the search.

The sailor, whose name is being withheld until relatives in California have been notified, is presumed drowned.

Blacktop Beats Nurses Home

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI—Are parking lots more important than residences for nurses?

Cost of the purchase of property for parking is a cost shareable by the provincial government.

But the purchase of property suitable for conversion into a home for nurses apparently is not, from discussions heard at the last meeting of the west coast general hospital board.

carried by the regional hospital district.

● The Alberni-Clayoquot Regional Hospital Board will be asked to provide funds to purchase and make changes to a building which originally housed the sisters teaching at Smith Memorial School.

The present nurses residence has been gone over by inspectors, and the recommendation is that the structure be replaced.

Costs of bringing it up to today's standards would be more than the building is worth, they agreed.

● The board decided to present a resolution calling for inter-hospital ambulance service to come under the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service at the B.C. Hospitals Association convention.

The resolution has twice been adopted by the association and included in briefs to the cabinet, without response from the government.

Commented Ald. Charles Blair, Alberni, vice-president of the board and chairman of the regional district committee, "apparently they view it as the thin edge of the wedge in the matter of accepting ambulance service."

● Congratulations were extended to Marvin Lockwood, by the hospital board and by the Canadian Hospital Association on his success in an educational course in management.

Mr. Lockwood achieved a mark of 93 per cent while the class average was only 74 per cent.

Mr. Lockwood is also to attend a course given by automatic X-ray specialists in Vancouver in November.

The X-ray equipment used cost $7,000,000 for the automatic equipment, and it is worthwhile to have an experienced man to maintain it, the board decided.

● As many board members as can possibly attend the Island regional hospital council meeting in Parksville Oct. 20 will do so.

Security, the problems of theft, "what do we lose and how do we handle it," and the responsibilities of regional pathologists to patients and to hospitals will be among the subjects discussed.

* * *

Pharmacist In Demand

PORT ALBERNI—Administrator F. S. Whittington received permission to proceed with negotiations to hire a pharmacist on a half-time basis to serve the hospital.

While the law requires a pharmacist on staff, a shortage of both trained pharmacists and funds keeps the position unfulfilled in many smaller hospitals.

* * *

The pharmacist is available to consult with doctors, and may be able to suggest substitutes for certain drugs that are hard to procure.

* * *

In addition to taking over control of narcotics, which involves considerable time at present for senior nursing personnel, a lot of time would be released which is presently spent by nurses on medications and replenishing of ward stocks, the nursing supervisor stated.

If time permits, the pharmacist often takes over the manufacture of such items as mouth wash for hospital use, the administrator explained.

Campbell River Gets Option On Arena Land

CAMPBELL RIVER — The necessary land options for the proposed arena have been purchased, R.C. Rathie, director of the district's recreation commission told the group's monthly meeting.

He said the options could be cancelled if the electors do not pass the arena referendum.

* * *

Mr. Rathie also told the meeting that because of the long hot summer, swimming pool paid admissions had reached an unprecedented 29,800.

This amount contributed to more than half of operating expenses of the pool for the year. Usually admissions contribute only about one third.

* * *

"The return of $9,675 out of a total expenditure of $17,922 is exceptional," he said.

The swimming instruction program was also successful; 1,690 children received instruction, of which 803 qualified in the classes in which they were entered.

The swimming club also had a good year, members did well in all competitions.

Mayor Urges Support

Officially proclaiming October and November the months of the campaign, the mayor said: "I most strongly urge our citizens to support the appeal and to contribute to it with the utmost possible generosity."

He said the institution was a truly united appeal and was a prime community objective supported by municipal leadership, business and labor throughout the Greater Victoria region.

Both Down Safely---Then Ladder Brushes Line

Wire Burns Cat Rescuer

The rescue of a cat from a telephone pole ended with Allan Williams, 31, suffering severe electrical burns when his aluminum ladder touched a high-voltage wire Thursday morning.

* * *

Mr. Williams, 433 Kingston, was reported in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, with burns on his scalp, back, ankle and heel.

* * *

The cat, which belongs to the Williams family, was stranded up the pole in front of the home the Williams have been living in for two days.

"The cat was up there all night crying," said Mrs. Williams.

* * *

"I phoned the fire department and they said they didn't do that any more. They said to phone the SPCA, but when I phoned I was told they didn't have any facilities for it. They said the cat would come down when it was ready. After all this, as far as I'm concerned, if a cat gets stuck up a tree, it can stay there," she said.

Mr. Williams rescued the cat and was standing on the grass as he pulled the ladder away.

It struck a line carrying 6,900 volts, and Mr. Williams was thrown to the ground. The circuit kept arcing from the ladder to Mr. Williams until the fuse was blown.

* * *

PO William Richardson, 803 Lampson, saw Mr. Williams as he drove by and went to his assistance.

"The people there didn't seem to know what to do," PO Richardson said.

He sent for a blanket and saw that Mr. Williams was having difficulty breathing.

* * *

Constable Dale Melin, a city motorcycle officer, arrived and he was bitten once before he and PO Richardson managed to remove the teeth.

* * *

Prince and lieutenant-governor get Norwegian welcome at airport

* * * * * * * * *

Quiet Harald Starts Hectic Visit

About 100 local residents of Norwegian extraction were on hand at Patricia Bay Airport when the RCAF plane carrying the royal party touched down exactly on schedule.

The 30-year-old crown prince stepped down from the plane to meet an official party headed by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Attorney-General Bonner who represented the premier.

The tall, slim prince was dressed in the uniform of a captain in the Norwegian army. He served in the forces as part of his education.

The gaily costumed Victoria Norwegians waved their former country's flag and when the prince crossed the tarmac with Mr. Pearkes, they sang the Norwegian national anthem. The prince stood stiffly to attention and saluted. He did not break protocol and chat with members of the crowd.

The functions arranged for Friday began at 10:40 a.m. when Prince Harald arrived at the legislative buildings to meet Mr. Bonner and the cabinet.

He departed at 10:55 a.m. for his official call on City Hall. Just before noon he arrived at the Union Club for a luncheon given by the provincial cabinet.

Members of the Sons of Norway had been invited by Mayor Hugh Stephen to City Hall when the crown prince made his official visit.

New Year Happy Two Hours Early

Public parties at which liquor is served may begin at 10 p.m. on New Year's Eve, which falls on a Sunday this year, Attorney-General Bonner indicated Thursday.

Bonner issued a statement which said the same course would be followed as in 1961, when the same situation prevailed.

It said: "No directive will be issued by the attorney-general's department in regard to celebration of New Year's Eve on Sunday, Dec. 31, in areas under immediate jurisdiction of police commissions, as this is a matter for local police administration.

Also as in former years, Bonner added, the Liquor Control Board has been instructed to issue permits to be effective from 12.01 a.m. Jan. 1, for private parties.

Homes Crisis Desperate

By A. H. MURPHY

City workers are combing the advertisments and cruising the streets looking for low-rental housing for welfare recipients, city council health committee members were told Thursday.

"There is just no place for these people to go, and the situation is desperate," said Ald. Lily Wilson, committee chairman.

"It's particularly bad when the families have children — and most of them do. I know of one pitiful case where a child is ill and going to grow progressively worse. The family is living in a cold basement flat.

Hunting for homes was not part of the work of the welfare department people. They were doing it just to try to help out and because the condition of some of the people was so grave, aldermen were told.

* * *

Mrs. Wilson wanted to know just what was happening on the 30-acre Rose-Blanshard urban redevelopment scheme.

"Well," said Mayor Hugh Stephen, "we have acquired 78 of the 127 properties needed and the provincial government is working on plans for the development, but nothing can be done really until we get all the property."

City Manager Dennis Young said there seemed to be a difference of opinion between the federal and provincial governments about the matter of how detailed plans should be, but he was confident that they would be ready when all the land was acquired.

* * *

(The federal government will pay half the cost of the $2,600,000 scheme and the provincial government one quarter.)

"Well, no matter what, we have got to do something to try to find houses for these people. They are desperate," Ald. Wilson emphasized.

Cold, Difficult Voyage Ends Royally for Pair

Thursday night University of Victoria students Ken McRae, 21, and Geoff Davis paddled into Montreal after a 3,000-mile canoe trip from Fort St. John.

The following is their account of the journey from Sault St. Marie to Ottawa and their stay in the capital city.

By KEN McRAE and GEOFF DAVIS

The trip was long and tiring but rather uneventful. Georgian Bay proved to be difficult as there are numerous rocky shoals and points which make navigation difficult.

* * *

From Georgian Bay we proceeded up the French River to North Bay on Lake Nipissing. The major obstacles on the French River were the rapids. We were travelling upstream and had to portage around the rapids. The portages were unmarked and over rough terrain.

We portaged over our fourth and last divide from Lake Nipissing to Trout Lake and proceeded from there down the Mattawa River to the Ottawa River, a trip involving 10 portages.

* * *

We arrived in Ottawa Oct. 1 after a week of the most miserable weather we had encountered. It rained every day, often accompanied by a bitterly cold north wind. The only time we were dry and warm was at night when we were wrapped up in our sleeping bags.

Many times we had to pull our canoe over log booms which blocked the entire Ottawa River. As it was raining most of the time our balance on the slippery logs was usually precarious. Several times we found ourselves up to our ears in water after making a wrong move on a boom.

Today (Oct. 2) has been one of the most exciting of our lives. We met with Governor-General Michener for 15 minutes and presented him with a written greeting from Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes. Incidentally, this message has been carried with us all the way across Canada in our canoe.

* * *

Later on in the day we had the privilege of meeting Prime Minister Pearson. He was as friendly, outgoing and down-to earth as His Excellency, Roland Michener. Both displayed a sincere interest in our trip—to quote Mr. Pearson, "It's an honor to meet you fellows."

Conviction Repeated

HUSBAND TO HANG

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani told the B.C. Supreme Court jury that found him guilty of capital murder Friday that he was not responsible for the arsenic murder of his wife.

"I have been asked three or four times if I was guilty of killing my wife. I did not kill my wife."

He then turned his head to look at the jury and said: "May God have mercy on your souls."

He was then sentenced to be hanged Jan. 23 by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer.

It was the second time Castellani had been found guilty of the capital murder of his wife, Esther, 40, who died in hospital of arsenic poisoning July 11, 1965.

★ ★ ★

He was granted a new trial after successfully appealing the first conviction.

Defence lawyer Charles Maclean said the second conviction will also be appealed.

Tests showed parts of her body contained up to 1,500 times the normal human tolerance. Castellani was arrested and charged.

★ ★ ★

In his summation to the jury, Maclean said: "If we're going to hang men for adultery, there aren't enough lamp posts in Vancouver to accommodate them."

Funeral symbolizes death of hippies in San Francisco

Hippies End Own Era, Invent Free New Life

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hundreds of flower children paraded through the mecca of the long-haired set Friday proclaiming "the death of the hippie." The marchers said they were purging evil to make men free.

The funeral procession included a 22-foot long black casket, a 15-foot cross, huge white flags, small symbolic painted signs, a few flowers and a variety of musical instruments.

A few brought their children along for the parade through the Haight-Ashbury district and nearby Golden Gate Park panhandle where love-ins, feed ins and various types of "ins" have been staged in recent months.

"The hippie is dead; now we are free," chanted some of the demonstrators waving sticks of incense and small American flags. Others chanted a Hindu prayer, Hare Krishna.

★ ★ ★

A hippie posing as a corpse was borne on a stretcher near the casket.

The significance of using the casket as a dumping grounds was explained by bearded George Darling, a hippie elder, wearing sandals, shorts and carrying the 15-foot cross.

"It's to get rid of our affectations," he said solemnly. "If beads are not you, put them in. If drugs are not you, put them in . . . the purpose of this community is to be yourself."

★ ★ ★

Darling, one of the operators of the hippies' communications centre known as Switchboard, said "We are hoping the disillusioned who have moved out will come back."

The parade ended in the park panhandle after a 90-minute march through the district where a banner across Haight Street read "Death of hippie. Freebie, birth of the free American."

The casket was set afire as hippies danced around it. Firemen arrived a few minutes later to spray the embers with water.

Only Head Remains In Sizzling Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tall, slender young man walked into a San Francisco foundry and stepped into a vat of molten iron.

The vat contained iron ore heated to 2,600 degrees and only his head was found. The coroner hopes to make identification from it.

Witnesses said the molten iron exploded when the man went into the vat Thursday, sending red-hot metal spraying 30 feet.

Police said they learned the man had tried to take his life earlier by jumping into a truck filled with liquid concrete.

William Nicolini, a telephone company supervisor, told police he pulled the man out but was told: "Leave me alone—I'm trying to make an impression."

Minutes later the man, about 28, walked into the foundry.

In St. Laurent Government

Ex-Minister Dead at 73

★ ★ ★

Campney

Campney had returned to his law firm after he lost his Vancouver Centre seat to the Conservatives in the 1957 federal election.

He was first elected to the Commons in 1949 and served as solicitor-general before being named defence minister in 1954.

But he was careful not to become too deeply involved in politics.

"Politics is a jealous mistress," he once remarked. "If you are not careful, it will take up more of your time than you bargained for."

★ ★ ★

He is survived by his wife, Mary, and a son, Alan F. Campney. His first wife, Vera, died in 1961.

"I learned with great regret of the death of my old friend and colleague Ralph Campney.

"We had served together in the House of Commons from 1949 to 1957 and had been cabinet colleagues from 1952 to 1957.

"My wife and I have sent our personal condolences to Mrs. Campney and the family.

"Canada has lost an outstanding citizen."

Stop Raids, Start Talks

India Claims Inside Word

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—India said Friday it has inside information that North Vietnam would talk peace if the United States would stop the bombs.

American officials remained unimpressed. They said privately they detected no new element in the Indian statement, made in the UN General Assembly by Defence Minister Sardar Swaran Singh.

Singh said India's firm belief that fighting would stop throughout Vietnam and a "Geneva-type" peace conference follow, if the U.S. called off the raids, is "based on our talks with the various parties concerned."

He appeared to be answering U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's Sept. 21 assembly statement that no third party had "conveyed to us any authoritative message from Hanoi that there would in fact be negotiations if the bombing were stopped."

★ ★ ★

Singh's statement was the most categorical yet in the assembly on the results of an end to the air raids, called for by several previous speakers, including Canada's External Affairs Minister Martin.

Diplomats attached considerable importance to Singh's statement because India is chairman of the International Control Commissions in Vietnam and Laos, which was created by the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences. Canada and Poland are the other commission members. India also has top-level representation in the key capitals involved, including Hanoi.

Singh stressed that he was not speaking out of "wishful thinking," but "with confidence and belief based on our talks with the various parties concerned with the conflict."

Jakarta Planning Break with Peking

"We will move toward a stop in diplomatic relations," he told a group of anti-Communist students. "The government will take measures but it needs time to make preparations."

The students Friday delivered an ultimatum to the government, warning that if it did not break relations by Monday morning they would seize the Chinese embassy in Jakarta and oust the Chinese diplomats.

New Job

Birthday Task Over

VANCOUVER (CP) — Centennial Commissioner John Fisher confirmed Friday he had resigned his federal post and has accepted a new job as publisher and managing director of Northwest Publications Ltd., a B.C. firm.

"I feel my job was pretty much completed," Fisher said in an interview. "After all, we're over the hump so far as the centennial is concerned, and I think it has sufficient momentum to carry on without my services."

Asked about reports he had encountered difficulties with State Secretary Judy LaMarsh and her predecessor, Senator Maurice Lamontagne, Fisher said:

"I never circulated any such reports. The job was an interesting challenge. I feel it's pretty well completed."

Teacher 'Trust' Absent

By BILL STAVDAL
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — "A deplorable lack of mutual trust and co-operation" between school trustees and teachers was attacked Friday by Robert Buzza, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Buzza made his criticism before the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. He went on to chide trustees for a resolution aimed at barring teachers from school boards anywhere in B.C (See also Page 12.)

NOT CONSIDERED

Despite his remarks, trustees later in the day refused to reconsider the resolution, passed Thursday. It asks the government to legislate against teachers holding seats on school boards.

At present, a teacher can sit on a board other than the one in the district where he teaches. There are five such teacher trustees in B.C.

'FEAR US'

"Many of you appear to fear us and to want to work against us rather than with us. Even to the point of attempting to deprive us of our rights as citizens," said Buzza.

"Teachers have served and are serving as councillors and mayors and reeves and MLAs and MPs and cabinet ministers and premiers and prime ministers.

NO OPPORTUNITY

"But trustees have now decided in their wisdom that the public should not have even the opportunity of deciding whether or not a responsible man or woman who happens to be a teacher should be elected as a trustee," he remarked.

The motion to reconsider was made by Burnaby trustee R. J. Bowman.

"I have the inevitiable feeling that many people in this province are laughing up their sleeve at us," said Bowman.

But debate was restricted to procedural matters and the actual issue did not come up for discussion a second time.

Grit Fiscal Policy

'Like Runaway Hearse'

Finance Minister Sharp was compared with all of them, unfavorably, in a Commons speech Friday by Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon).

'BIG SPENDERS'

"Never since the Klondike gold rush . . . has their been such an agglomeration of big spenders," the sharp-tongued MP said as the Commons continued debating Sharp's budget presented last June.

Sharp was standing in the midst of "fiscal wreckage" brought on by "the most spendthrift government in our history."

Nielsen said Sharp promised in his budget speech four months ago to tackle inflation. But now that debate had resumed after the summer recess, he had been forced to admit his failure to control the situation.

Because Sharp's cabinet colleagues refused to curtail their spending, the minister was trapped "like a passenger in a runaway hearse . . . heading for a precipice in the economic affairs of this country."

He was like the Duke of York in the poem that told of his marching men up the hill only to march them back down again. He talked of cutting back government expenditures but his colleagues went right on spending.

Nielsen

In the "field of empire-building" Sharp and the government make "Alexander the Great and Napoleon look like the Smothers brothers," Nielsen said.

Sharp was like a mouse in a cage full of lions, instead of a real lion-tamer. In fact, if he were to make a real attempt at curbing spending, he would have to be "a fiscal Clyde Beatty."

OWN SPENDING

Sharp's predicted $740,000,000 budget deficit of last June was on the way to growing to about $1,000,000,000, Nielsen said. Though such advisory bodies as the Economic Council of Canada had called for reduced government spending, all Sharp could do was say that he was trying to trim spending for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Sharp's own department is spending $250,000,000 more this year than last, the Conservative MP said.

The planned performing arts centre in Ottawa had started out with a price tag of $10,000,000 and costs now had soared to $40,000,000.

The publicly-owned CBC had become "a byword for uncontrolled expenditure." The Commons no longer held control over its spending and there was "so much fat surrounding the bone that you can't even see to cut."
